HIS MAJESTY LEADS

Mimic Warfare

London, July 17. His Majesty the King led the Fleet to sea for mimic warfare to-day, following yesterday's grand review, the carnival spirit being replaced by a most workmanlike attitude.

Among the unusual features of the manoeuvres were special shells fired by cruisers against the wireless-controlled target ship, H.M.S. Centurion. The shells had weakened cases, designed to break easily into small fragments.

Four of the biggest battleships later concentrated the fire of thirty 15-inch guns on a towed target travelling at the rate of twenty knots an hour.

Aircraft controlled by wireless delivered a high bombing attack on warships, which replied with long-range anti-aircraft guns.

A torpedo attack on H.M.S. Nelson was met with multiple fire from pom-poms and machine-guns.

On the completion of the exercises, the whole Fleet steamed past the Royal yacht, the personnel cheering the King, who commanded that the signal, "Splice the Mainbrace" should be made to H.M. ships throughout the world.

AERIAL TARGET.

London, July 17. The King returned to London to-night by special train from Portsmouth after watching the Fleet exercises from the Royal yacht this morning. The exercise included firing at the Fleet target ship Centurion and at towed targets, and anti-aircraft firing at the wireless-controlled aerial target "Queen Bee" which was seen for the first time by the King, the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York and Kent, who were with him on the bridge of the Victoria and Albert.

A little plane was flown off from the cruiser Achilles and put to turn, to climb or to dive on its flight towards its supposed victim, the battleship Rodney, by wireless control. It was soon "spotted" and surrounded by smoke from exploding shells, through which it moved steadily towards its objective. When almost over the Rodney, guns registered a hit and the "Queen Bee" fell into the sea.

At the end of the tactical exercises the Royal yacht steamed back to Portsmouth through two lines of ships extending for several miles.

TWO HAPPY DAYS

The King has sent a message to the Fleet expressing his entire satisfaction with everything he has seen and congratulating all ranks and ratings. "I shall not easily forget the impressive spectacle of the review, in which I am pleased to think that ships of the Merchant Navy have for the first time taken part, while the success with which the Fleet exercises have been carried out to-day bears witness to the traditional efficiency of the Royal Navy. These two happy days spent by me at sea, accompanied by my sons, and with the Service to which I had the honour to belong for so many years, will remain one of the most inspiring recollections of my Jubilee."

HEAT WAVE

In Death Valley

Los Angeles, July 17. The temperature reached 126 degrees in Death Valley to-day. This barren, broiling California cactus country is rapidly the hottest place on earth. It is also impossible for human beings to exist there in summer.

Eight persons succumbed to the heat as the wave crept across the Southern United States to-day.

THE PRESIDENT

Fights For The A. A. A.

Washington, July 17. President Roosevelt to-day gave assurance that the Agriculture Adjustment Administration Act, ruled unconstitutional yesterday by a Circuit Court of Appeal, would continue to function until the Supreme Court gave the final ruling on the cotton processing taxes, on which the validity of the whole fabric of the A.A.A. hinges.

The President turned over to the Attorney-General, Mr. Homer S. Cummings, all inquiries as to whether the processing tax would now be collectable and whether the jurisdiction of the Boston Circuit Court went so far as to include this matter.

SENATE VOTES

Reversing its opinion of yesterday, the Senate to-day voted 44-41 to strike out the price-fixing provisions of the A.A.A. Amendments Bill.

The vote is regarded as a setback for the Administration forces which are insisting upon the retention of the price-fixing clause as a vital part of the bill.

The final Senate vote on the entire bill will possibly be counted to-night.

NEW INSURANCE SCHEME

Most Remarkable

London, July 17. The Minister of Health, Sir Kingsley Wood, reviewed the work of his Department in the House of Commons to-day. He said the creation of a scheme of national health insurance had been one of the most remarkable developments in public health in the last quarter of a century. The scheme had disbursed benefit to the value of $480,000,000 and had been copied by twelve other countries. Representatives from many countries came to study the working of the scheme.

Provisions of the widows' and old-age pension scheme had been steadily expanding and now included 600,000 old-age pensions and 600,000 widows' pensions, supplemented by 270,000 additional allowances in respect of children and 15,000 orphans' pensions. No country in the world had made such provision for millions of people against some of the most serious disabilities of life.

NO MORE SLUMS

During the four years up to March 31, 1935, approximately a million houses had been built, and for the first six months of 1935 new houses for slum replacement had been sanctioned at a rate of over 6,000 per month in England and Wales. The unsolved problem of reducing maternal mortality was complex and would require patience, but special enquiries were proceeding, which, he hoped, would aid understanding and action.

There had been a great awakening of the national conscience on health and particularly on housing affairs, and the nation itself was learning greater common-sense in health matters, including diet and increased use of day-light, open air, leisure and recreation.

An Opposition speaker criticised the Government's housing programme as inadequate, and alleged that many new houses were jerry-built.

REFORM APPROVED

Washington, July 17. The Senate Agriculture Committee has reported favourably on the McCarran Bill which seeks the repeal of the fifty per cent. tax on silver trading transactions in America.

ROUND THE SHOPS

The sale is still proceeding at Lane Crawford's and there are a hundred and one bargains still to be had. Further reductions on all goods are being made so as to clear everything possible and make room for new goods expected shortly. In the children's department there are a lot of kiddie's shoes selling at under cost price and winter coats going for about $4.

FLOWERED CHIFFON FROCKS

Maizees are showing some very pretty evening frocks in flowered chiffon, all these dresses look so light and pretty. You should see the lovely selection of flowers they have just received which just puts the finishing touches to an evening dress.

SUMMER GLOVES

Eve are selling off Summer gloves at very special prices. All these are this season's goods.

AFTERNOON DRESSES

Rivelle has some very pretty silk afternoon dresses, all these are very inexpensive.

CLOTH HATS

Mayo's have just received a big shipment of cloth hats in all the latest and attractive shapes, at prices to suit every one.

SHOE SALE

Gordon's shoe sale starts on Wednesday 24th, and there are some really nice models going from $2. Be there early and take your choice.

LACE BLOUSE

The lace blouse is a becoming accessory for crepe de chine, marocain and other silky fabrics used for the dressier type of tailored suits. In ecru and ivory tones these lace blouses are designed on summing lines for the not-so-youth. The upper part of the round or v-shaped neckline of lace is flat, just a covering of lace as a background for jewels, with narrow frills of finely tucked lace from shoulder to waistline finished with a small butterfly bow of lace in the centre of the front.

Flower jabots made of organdie in white and pastel colours are among the little novelties shown as a finish to the simple, exquisitely made muslin and organdie blouses. A flat cactus shape with curved strands made in pale pink organdie is an example of modern needlework.

LINEN AND TAFFETA

Choice of materials for warm weather wear has never been so prodigious as in this year. Linen, the coolest of them all on account of the fine thread, has attained to the height of perfection in both weave and design; then there are the British silk linens, the new seersucker and open-weave fabrics, with organdies, organzas, piques and voiles in endless variety.

Taffeta, too, which stands so high in fashion's favour this season, is an ideal selection for day or evening wear. Artificial silk taffeta is even cooler than the pure silk.

conscious in appearance, she is part of the display and must never forget it if she is to impress her facts on the ultra critical feminine audience assembled to study—and to buy—the latest models.

RISE OF THE FASHION COMMENTATOR

New And Attractive Career For Experts

A new arrival in the world of women's dress specialists is the "fashion commentator," who appears at important dress shows and fashion parades, which are held from time to time by dress designers, and at the leading fashion stores in London and the provinces. Her part is to provide a racy and interesting comment on the latest modes worn by mannequins in the show.

In common with the modern "stylist" and the expert "fashion adviser," authorities on advance intelligence of the modes to come, two other innovations in fashion and commerce, the work of a fashion commentator opens fresh vistas for the ambitious girl of to-day.

At present the part is played by likely graduates in close touch with designers of the mode, the chief saleswoman, perhaps, in an exclusive dress house or buyers of department's in leading fashion stores. Sometimes at the smart "one man" Mayfair dress shows the creator of the models provides a witty and practical comment on his fashion creations, thereby giving piquancy to the display.

Again, the commentator may be a well-known actress noted for her good taste in dress, or a facile writer on the vogue of the day.

HIGHLY SPECIALISED

This still new branch of fashion work is becoming more highly specialised each season, for although there is a strong salesmanship angle it demands artistic and versatile gifts in many other directions as well. No longer is it thought that the fashion commentator is "born not made." There are very definite qualifications needed to make the job a financial success, and the girl launching out on this career needs to train herself to a high degree of attractive efficiency.

That there is a definite opening in this somewhat unusual calling is proved by the rise in the number of trained specialists engaged in the work as each fashion season passes.

How does one become a fashion commentator? To begin with an inside knowledge of fashion gained in a showroom is a valuable experience. A study of voice production is also useful, for although a B.B.C. accent is by no means essential, a good speaking voice, pleasantly pitched, with a clear enunciation in respect of dress details and price is important. Good French is also an asset. A charming manner, and graceful "deportment," to use an old-fashioned word, are other acquisitions which can be cultivated.

LOOK THE PART

To the girl interested in all aspects of dress and the mode, this work is a fascinating way of making money. It entails research, a multitude of subjects connected with manufacture and design in order to provide the required ideas for an interesting commentary, apart from stressing the attractive points and the actual description of the models shown, which are, of course, the main themes.

A wide knowledge of new colours produced each season—and their correct names—their suitability to certain types of women, and of materials, laces, furs, and other fabrics in fashion and use, qualities and prices are all matters which must be studied and absorbed so accurately that when their story comes to be told it must flow evenly and clearly.

A flash of humour may be admitted occasionally, but in the main women find choosing and buying their new hats and frocks a serious affair, not to be taken lightly.

The fashion commentator should herself possess an impeccable taste in dress. Her make-up should be beyond reproach. Although always cool and unself-

FASHIONS FOR HEAT WAVE

Linen Comes Into Its Own

Sunshine modes and smart rainproofs were in equal demand recently in the Westend sales.

The heat wave and the thunderstorm competed for pride of place in women's shopping plans.

The demand for sun-bathing clothes, mostly in Jubilee colour schemes of red, white, and blue, was keeping the sportswear departments busy when the thunderstorm arrived.

Women who had started on their shopping expeditions in brilliant sunshine spent a busy hour choosing umbrellas and new designs in waterproofed coats, many of them with capes.

The storm over, they returned to the task of choosing clothes in which to keep cool. There was a demand for "tub" frocks with an exclusive air.

These homely dresses of a former generation are designed to day by leading fashion creators, who have fallen in love with the variety of novel cottons and linens were being sold rapidly.

ASCOT AND GINGHAM

To-day a woman can wear an Ascot hat with a gingham frock. Smart accessories in the form of belts, handbags, and shoes were being bought lavishly to go with these dresses.

Thanks to the heat wave, linen has come into its own. Linen suits were in demand in "dusky" pink, turquoise blue and seagreen shades. Women were choosing linen capes to throw over light frocks or beach suits. Shoes, hats and bags of linen were other not-weather selections.

Blue, the most fashionable colour of the season, has proved as successful as white in helping women to feel cool. Until recently women were concentrating on the dark blues that are considered so smart at the moment. Now the demand is for all the lighter shades, from aquamarine to turquoise and a true sky blue.

NO GARDEN PATTERNS

For the first summer for many years, garden party dresses in plain colours or simple spot or check designs are being chosen in preference to dresses in "flower garden" patterns.

The reason is that women are using flowers lavishly in trimming, and floral fabrics are consequently not so smart. No heat-wave dress scheme will be complete unless it introduces flowers somewhere, as a spray for the corsage, decorating a belt, or as trimming for a wide-brimmed hat.

Sleeves and skirts were other summer fashions that appealed to women shoppers. There was a run on smart ensembles, consisting of a silk frock and a light coat with slit sleeves. Some of the coats chosen were slit at the back from the collar to the waistline, showing the pattern of the dress worn underneath.

Leather Is Popular

Leather and suede in all colours are the most popular materials in Hollywood at the moment, especially for the younger players.

Kathleen Burke, leading in Paramount's famous 'The Lives of A Bengal Lancer,' has a three-piece sports outfit in the new paprika shade, and made entirely of suede with flat seams laced together with leather thong.

Margo, appearing in Paramount's 'Rumba,' has a three-piece suit in suede, carried out in hunter's green, and with a vest and beret to match.

BEADED EVENING GOWN

Lyda Roberti, who is featured in Paramount's 'The Big Broadcast Of 1935,' simply cannot get away from beaded gowns. In nearly every picture she has one to wear.

In 'The Big Broadcast' she will wear a gorgeous pink gown which sparkles all over with massed beads. It is made in a closely fitted sheath with camouflage godets which emerge round the ankles when she moves.

FUR FINISHES

According to Travis Banton, Paramount's fashion expert, fur has about run its gamut in the important style trends.

Banton declares that he will use as little of it as possible in the costumes he will design for Carole Lombard, Marlene Dietrich, Claudette Colbert and other of the Paramount stars next Autumn and Winter. One reason for this decision, he states, is that intricately woven fabrics and more original treatment of detail will take the place of the lavish fur collars and handings which have predominated.

Travis Banton recently described a crinoline party dress worn by Joan Bennett in Paramount's 'The Pursuit of Happiness' as the type of dress a modern girl could wear by simply removing the hoop. And now, Wendy Barrie, whose first Paramount film is 'College Scandal,' is wearing a direct copy of Joan's dress without the bouffant crinoline skirts.

SUMMER

If You Would Keep Cool—

Choose The Correct Hot-Weather Colours

Whether at home or abroad, the hot-weather question is the same. "What shall we wear?"

White has ever been the coolest of colours; the sun's rays jump off it instead of being absorbed, as we were told at school; but they forgot to mention that that is what the Arabs wear it in the desert. Woman's choice in 1935 need not stop here, however, for hot weather wear was given separate attention when the British Colour Council's spring and summer colour card was prepared.

Golden shades are good, with yellows moving through greens and blues to violet. Violet, it was told here, in on the border line. With it veers to blue it is cool, when it goes the other way towards red it is not so good. Bright reds and oranges are unsuitable selections.

There is one qualification in every case. They must be good, pure colours, clean and sharp. When they are toned down to the slightest extent they lose that crisp look which is essential for a cooling effect.

Specially planned for hot and sunny days are the following vivacious hues: "Guinea Gold," "Casino Green," "Flax Blue," "Moth Grey" and "Orchid Tint," with "Pearly Blue," "Epsom Green" and "Flag Red" as suggestions to be used sparingly for splashes of decoration.

One firm of home furnishers is stressing the silver, white and green theme. There are tall vases of white pottery, plain or pearl glass, and in them stand silvered branches sometimes with a complete frond or alternatively with leaves of cellophane.

For dining-table decoration there are shallow glass bowls with glass bubbles of varying sizes in place of the one-time floating flowers. Silver candlesticks may have silver or white candles. Individual mats in green or a complete runner in light hand-woven linen are equally cooling. For a modern room one piece of furniture, but one only, may be of mirror glass.

Windows play an important part in keeping a home cool in hot weather. The number of Louvre shutters, a familiar sight on the Continent, is practically negligible in this country, according to a store skilled in the matter of window treatments. They are fitted in this country chiefly for decorative purposes, only when they form an integral part of the architecture of the house. People who have this type of home are fortunate in a heat wave; if the shutters are closed and the windows opened before the sun strikes the house there will be a steady direct current of cool air that has not passed through hot glass.

IN PARIS

Clothes By Maggy Rouff

PATTERNS IN LACE

Old Yet New

Maggy Rouff has shown dresses which she sent over to New York on the first voyage of the Normandie. "Paris-New York" is the name of a white dress and three-quarter coat with draped sleeves; the coat is lined with sapphire blue, and a toque of tulle and uncurled ostrich feathers is of the same colour. Hats, worn with Maggy Rouff's dresses are by Agnes.

A dinner dress of seaweed coloured shiny sequins fits closely; the train is long and pointed; the sleeves are long and tight; wine-red roses clustered at the neck, and the little toque is of black crepe has crepe chrysanthemums sewn deeply on the waist, the lower part, and the train. The full skirt of a white silk muslin evening dress is bordered with red bead and sequin embroidery in a key pattern, which also marks the belt and edges the long shoulder drapery; here the hem line is slightly stiffened. A simple and stately dress of black crinkled crepe is worn with a deep belt of silver and crystal embroidery, a narrow band of which runs down the long medieval sleeves.

SILVER FOX

Capes of silver fox, astrakhan, and summer ermine are still worn with black, brown, and dark blue summer woollen dresses, and big straw or felt hats are usual. There are now too many Panama hats, and their day is nearly over. Light felts are newer, and there are many new berets. Rose Valois makes some which are berets only in name, so mixed are their ancestry. They are more often of felt than velvet. The uncertain weather maintains the fashion of formal tailor-made clothes for the afternoon, whether of velvet, crepe satin, or figured silk. A figured dress and plain coat can withstand a shower of rain; the large hat is usually in plain black or black with white flowers.

Stars and crescents, as well as flowers and feathers, are now worn in the hair. Cartier shows some Hindu jewelry of precious stones and enamels set in gold, and also modern jewelry in which the stones appear to have no setting at all. Feather fans have appeared in the ballroom; feather jackets have been worn, and the feather cape has not disappeared. Feathers, however, do not make best wraps; they are better as hat trimmings or as fans. Flowers in the hair may also be overdone. There are now Greek styles of hairdressing; turbans or lacquered hair are also worn, and the braids and coils of Botticelli have been copied by Antoine.

Lace can be old yet new, recalling famous pictures from the past and suggesting new ones for the present. Wonderful patterns have been resuscitated and in many textures.

Heavy and the Italian designs, as well as Chantilly, needlework, blond; or the spotted-velvet, but small, crisp patterns—all are in request.

The tall bride will do well to take full advantage of the many varieties in point de Venise, as a border to the moulded magnificence of ivory brocade or satin façonné.

No less lovely is the full skirt and short corage with deep frills and cape of lighter lace.

DOMINATING NOTE

It would seem certain that lace is the dominating note in the bridal retinue this summer. Nothing is more attractive for the brides who follow the bride at June weddings than the delicately tinted net with tiny frills and insertions of lace.

One recent bride wore a particularly beautiful panel, old Italian lace forming a petticoat on thick creamy satin. Over this came a sort of polonaise, with train of satin bordered with the same fabric plaited.

A Medici collar of the lace and deep cavalier cuffs completed a square-cut tabbed satin corsage. A true-lover's knot in rubies and diamonds was the sole ornament. Clouds of tulle formed the very long veil.

GOLDEN BRIDES

There have always been effective golden brides, but, as the case also with silver, there are many tones in gold. Ice-blue and silver or parchment and a dead gold are a wonderful wedding choice for brides who can carry off such magnificence.

Lace can add further beauty either in the bordering of the veil and tulle, or selecting one of the latest rustling silken under-slips.

The entirely lace bridal robe is another affair. Unless of very fine fragile design it is apt to be heavy. Some of the newer light patterns, in very pale shades make up very successfully.

Finest and palest pink net was chosen by a spring bride, who placed it over pale silver tulle. The bodice seemed to be made of a cape that floated away with the veil.

She was followed by six small children, similarly attired. They carried pink roses with silver streamers and wore silver shoes.

LONDON NOTES

Summer Accessories

White hats or hats with white brims and contrasting crowns are for the most part simply trimmed with narrow ribbon or dotted coloured veils. They may be of almost any shape and size: the small Breton sailors which often have a rolled edge to the brim, large mushroom shapes, off-the-race bonnets, and halo hats, and some have the wide back brim which is the newest line. Fancy piques, linens, felts and shiny straws are the favourite materials. Veils are now seldom worn over the face, save to the depth of one, or two inches. They more often form the sole trimming in the form of large bows or hang softly from the back of the hat on to the shoulders. They are generally black or blue and may have large chenille spots.

Hardly any summer costume is complete without its flower. A crisp pique buttonhole matches a white pique hat trimmed with the same flower. A small toque of white violets has a large matching buttonhole. A shaggy red carnation, posed right in the middle of a large black hat, is repeated in the buttonhole of the accompanying suit or at the waist of a chiffon frock. Many-coloured nosegays are used as trimming for hats and also as buttonholes. There are many small toques made of massed flowers, such as violets, geraniums, hyacinths, and lilacs.

CLUSTER OF ROSES

In the evening clusters of roses and leaves in natural colours trim the front of a bodice, and sprays of orchids or lilies are fastened on the shoulder of gowns which are of dull, heavy materials in plain colours. Gardenias and small, flat flowers, often real ones, are worn in the hair singly or in the form of wreaths. Very decorative worn with organdi and light-summer frocks are the bracelets, clips, and earrings in flower designs, of dull metal with enamelled petals and bead centres.

For evening wear with printed dresses there are sandals fastened with little bunches of flowers. Gold and silver kid in sandals and Court shoes are decorated with buckles and clips of paste and, coloured rhinestone. For day-time coloured shoes harmonize with the dresses generally. Blue and white costumes go with blue shoes stitched with white. Brown pumps have white insets, and white heels are worn with a brown linen suit and blouse of white pique. With sports suits, scarves give the fashionable bright colour note. Some are of glass fabrics embroidered with brightly coloured spots. Tulle, organdi and novelty cottons may be had in brilliantly coloured shades, and spot designs. A scarf of

EXQUISITE FLOWER
PATTERNS

Lovely Hands

The designers of floral materials are working the simplest of flowers into exquisite patterns this season.

Mary Ellis, who will soon be seen in her Paramount film success—Paris Love Song wears a charming dinner dress of chiffon with an allover design of field flowers on a black background.

White, yellow, red and blue, these daisies, poppies and cornflowers are grouped together in a modernistic way, and their long stalks give grace and delicacy to the pattern. The dress is made with a high back and long sleeves, and carries tiny buttons all down the front.

Miss Ellis is fond of pastel shades and chooses accessories that make a striking contrast. She always wears long gloves in the evening, and chooses dark brown or black accessories with a gown of flesh pink, maize, "dusty" blue, orchid or water green.

The star of Paris Love Song is fond of tiny barrel muffs, and in the picture she carries muffs of fur, velvet and silk—each designed to emphasise the character of her ensemble.

For personal use, however, Miss Ellis prefers the type of muff that slips on the wrist like a cuff.

If you value lovely hands, take note of the following hints which have been followed with success.

Massage your hands after washing with a little hand lotion that will rub in without leaving them sticky, and rub this in well the last thing at night. If your hands are too thin, use a hand cream instead of a lotion, and massage your hands well, kneading the cream in with the palm of your free hand. Be careful not to stretch the skin over the knuckles.

You can make a good hand cream by taking a cold cream and mixing in a coffee-spoonful of almond oil. The best time for the massage is of course at night before you go to bed. Whenever you apply cream or lotion to your hands you should always treat your elbows in the same way, as nothing is more unattractive than wrinkly, rough, or hardened elbows.

To get rid of that horrible goose flesh type of rash that appears on the upper arms you need a saucer of warm olive oil. The oil should be well rubbed into the skin with a rubber nail brush, left on for 15 minutes, and then taken off with a heavy lather of good complexion soap and a stiff rubber sponge, rinsed in cool water, dried, and a hand lotion applied. Two weeks of this treatment given daily will clear up the condition.

To keep your hands and arms white, it is worth getting one of the face packs done up in tubes. You wash your hands and arms in hot water, dry thoroughly, spread on the mask, which has a slightly bleaching effect, leave on for 15 minutes, rinse off with warm water, and pat in a good cold cream.

MAE WEST'S CAPE

Mae West, star of Paramount's "Goin' To Town," caused a sensation at a Hollywood party with one of her new gowns.

It was a lovely evening frock of white chiffon, with the full-skirted silhouette of the moment, and a long, graceful cape of bright red chiffon floated from her shoulders to the floor.

Just under her chin a cluster of red chiffon added a note of softness, and the fascinating ensemble was rounded off by a large, red hat, of the size so popular with Mae.

chamois is worn with a matching bag and belt.

The hair is worn much shorter this season. It is frequently brushed across the back of the head to curl over the temples and ears. Tapered tips and pins are frequently indispensable to this new type of coiffure.

SINO-INDIAN CULTURAL ENDEAVOURS

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 16.

Dr. Woo Kang, D. Litt, Dean of the College of Arts of National Sun Yat Sen University, is invited to become an honorary member of the Greater India Society, a cultural organization in Calcutta, which is interested in the studies in civilization between China and India and how the two countries can co-operate in cultural endeavours.

The Greater India Society, through its secretary Dr. U. N. Ghoshal, is desirous to exchange publications of the Society with the Sun Yat Sen University and other cultural and educational bodies in China. Professor Woo Kang is requested to arrange the exchange of publications. In particular, the Society desires to know the educational plans and progress in China.

Other foreign educational institutions are also interested in educational development in China. Professor Shepotov of the University of Caucasus at Tiflis wrote to Dean Woo and requested him to introduce to him books on Chinese civilization especially relating to Confucian philosophy, as the University there does not have any works on this subject. Since European professors do not read Chinese, Dean Woo has written to Leroux Librarie at Rue de Seine, Paris to supply the Russian scholar with books on Chinese philosophy.

Dean Woo is not personally acquainted with the foreign educational institutions and scholars who know him through his scholarly works published in Paris while he was a graduate student in the University there. Dean Woo wrote several books on Chinese

AIR FORCE HORSEMAN

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.

The title of Inspector-General of the R.A.F. has been defunct since 1920.

Air Chief-Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, who has been appointed to this post, is one of the finest horsemen in the Air Force. In his pre-war days as a soldier he seldom missed a day's hunting or a point-to-point.

He won his regimental point-to-point, the Oxford and Bucks Light Infantry, more than once. Among his trophies, too, is a cup for the Staff College heavyweight race.

He was one of the first of the R.F.C. to cross the German lines in 1914. After the war he was the first to fly over the desert surveying the Cairo-Bagdad air mail route.

HOPEI COAL STRIKE

Tientsin, July 9.

Martial law was declared yesterday in the coal mines of the Kailan Mining Administration in Machia-kow, north-eastern Hopei, where over 1,000 workers are on strike against the increase of working hours. Two men suspected of inciting the miners have been arrested.

Although the strike is still on, it is understood that the dispute will shortly be settled in view of the fact that a large number of the strikers are in favour of mediation.

philosophy and civilization in the French language. Through such works he is well known in Europe and the United States. The dean is also a well-known Chinese scholar, having written similar works in this language.

NEW BRITISH ADVISER

For Siam Customs Department

Bangkok, July 6.

Mr. W. D. Reeve, at present Adviser to the Excise Department, will in future act as Adviser to both H.M.'s Customs and the Excise Department. This position has always been held by a Britisher.

It is officially announced that Mr. D. F. Mace has been retired from the position of Customs Adviser on pension by reason of ill health.

Before transferring to the Siamese service, Mr. Mace had a distinguished career in the British Customs and Excise, mostly in the United Kingdom, although his last appointment before coming to Siam was in Uganda.

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

I AM A THIEF

A robbery that had not been written into the script and a thief who was not in the cast added a touch of surprise and suspense to the making of "I Am a Thief" the Warner Bros. picture which comes to the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday.

During the shooting of some of the most exciting scenes in the disappearance of the famous diamonds whose fate on the Paris-Constantinople express forms the theme of the picture, Director Robert Florey found his coat was missing. With it had disappeared a considerable amount of money in a wallet.

Florey reported the loss to the studio police department and went on with the picture. While Mary Astor, who has the role of a secret service operator, busied herself aboard the train, hunting for the lost Karantina diamonds in the film sequence, two plain-clothes men were engaged in a parallel but more realistic search for the director's vanished coat.

The real officers, however, were not as successful in their search as Miss Astor was in hers.

THE ST. LOUIS KID

James Cagney will be seen for the last time to-day at the Alhambra Theatre in his latest Warner Bros. picture, "The St. Louis Kid," which is said to be most riotously funny as well as the most thrillingly dramatic production in which he has yet appeared.

The story by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan revolves about a milk trust war which Jimmy has unwittingly started by a speech conjured up to get himself out of jail for having knocked the milk magnate cold.

The milk war leads to a score of thrilling situations in which Jimmy is arrested for a murder he did not commit, his girl is kidnapped, and another war with the band of abductors. The breath-taking action, interspersed with hilarious comedy winds up in a novel and astounding climax.

Jimmy has the role of a red headed, hot tempered Irish truck-driver who gets into trouble every minute.

THE QUEEN'S

Charles Butterworth
Scores

Those who saw "Forsaking All Others" will perhaps remember that despite the fact that such players as Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery were in the leading roles, Charles Butterworth almost "stole" the picture. In "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" he was equally successful in the role of "Algy," Colman's best friend. Now at last the powers-that-be in film-land have realised that nothing short of a leading role would do for Butterworth and he is given his first leading part in "Baby Face Harrington," the current attraction at the Queen's Theatre.

He shares the honours in this excellent film with Una Merkel, herself an actress of the highest order.

The story, an account of a meek little clerk who is mistaken for a notorious public enemy, is crammed with the kind of situations Butterworth has built his reputation on mastering, and is thoroughly recommended.—F. Mela.

WORLD PEACE

Mr. Henderson On Disarmament

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
A National Peace Congress, attended by delegates from nearly 350 organizations, was opened yesterday at Friends House, Euston Road, N.W. Dr. G. P. Goob, president of the National Peace Council, presided at the opening session, which was attended by Lord Cecil, Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., President of the World Disarmament Conference, and the Chinese Ambassador.

The Chairman said this was the twenty-fifth congress, and the largest they had held.

Mr. Henderson expressed his indebtedness to Lord Cecil and to those who had worked with him to bring about the immense success of the national declaration which was announced at the Albert Hall the previous night. It was essential, Mr. Henderson continued, that peace lovers should be on the alert. They should be seriously considering what active measures could be taken to arrest the drift in the wrong direction which they were witnessing in his and other countries. It was not suggested that there was any immediate danger of a great European conflict, although they were compelled to recognize that movements were going on which were very near the danger line of actual conflict.

COLLECTIVE SYSTEM
Disarmament appeared to be fading out of the picture, and reduction or even limitation was seldom mentioned in any of the references that certain Governments made to the machinery to peace. That situation surely represented a surprising change, which was disappointing and might even become dangerous, having regard to the disturbed condition of the European situation.

The paramount need of the present moment was to make a reality of the collective system. The failure to make full and effective use of the collective peace system had assisted to bring about the present disturbed and critical position in Europe, and although he had no desire to be an alarmist he believed the nations were now confronted with the greatest peace crisis since the League of Nations was founded. It was his conviction that collective security and disarmament were closely interlocked, and nothing could make countries truly safe from war until a world agreement in favour of

DANCE IN TERM

TIME
Ideal Setting

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
Stowe is, I suppose, the only public school that gives a dance in term-time. On Saturday about 100 members of the school over the age of 16 took tickets for the second dance held there.

The band and the caterers arrived from London, and partners were forthcoming in the form of elder sisters and friends.

The setting was ideal. The dance took place in the library, designed by Sir John Vanbrugh and altered later by Adam. Supper was in the old Music Saloon, with its Pompeian frescoes by Valdre.

The weather made the grounds—one of the finest examples of the 18th century landscape gardener's art—ideal for strolls between dances.

LONG, LONG AGO
On another June night, some 180 years ago, there was another big party at Stowe.

Lord Temple, then reputed to be the richest man in England, was entertaining the Princess Amelia Sophia to an Arcadian supper.

The weather then, however, was not so kind. Horace Walpole, who was of the party, wrote acidly about it:

"We supped in a Grotto in the Elysian fields, and were refreshed with rivers and gentle showers that dripped from all the trees, and put us in mind of the heroic ages when kings and queens were shepherds and shepherdesses, and lived in caves and were wet to the skin two or three times a day."

He could not help laughing at the fact that the party—"gay young things of three score or thereabouts"—spent their time trying to keep dry, and "wrapped up in coats and cloaks for fear of catching cold."

progressive disarmament had been signed and ratified.

Should the collective peace system fail or be weakened seriously they would be thrown back on international anarchy with each nation claiming to be the sole judge of its own rights and prepared to assert its rights by force of arms. Although the Geneva Conference had failed so far to deliver the goods it remained in being and the fundamental purpose for which it was organized was unchanged.

Levies Heavy Toll

Kandy.
Malaria is once more levying a heavy toll in the Wategama area and an indication of the extent to which the population has been affected may be found in the considerably increased attendance at the dispensary, where the daily average is in the neighbourhood of 300.

According to a report submitted at a meeting of the local Malaria Relief Committee, held at Wategama, it would appear that the village of Udawana is the most seriously affected.

The Committee agreed to request Government to revive the distribution of foodstuffs in view of considerable distress and the attenuated condition of the villagers.

Offers of private contributions of foodstuffs included those of several planters in the Madukelle district of gifts of tea.

During the epidemic of November-March hundreds of pounds of tea were given by estates in the Madukelle and Hunagalla districts and their generosity was very greatly appreciated by the Committee.

REFUSING MEDICINE
The advent of the south-west monsoon spells a brighter outlook than the countryside has known for many months. Nevertheless, it is felt that such relief measures as were in force during the early days of the epidemic should continue.

One of the problems of medical officers working in rural areas is that the villager is still unappreciative of the therapeutic value of quinine. He takes his medicine with a very bad grace and is all too ready at the first signs of relief from fever to stop it.

The Committee, in an endeavour to assist the medical officer, have undertaken to send a special visitor to neighbouring villages to see that fever patients continue to take their medicine as directed.

They are also taking steps to distribute pamphlets in Sinhalese in furtherance of this object, while every effort is being made by the officers of the Health Department to effect mosquito control.

NOT ALWAYS OBEYED

London, July 2.
The ingenuity of motorists in Rome has proved equal to the 24-hour ban on hooting which is now in force in many parts of this country.

A friend in Italy tells the writer that "hus drivers in particular have perfected a technique of 'revving up' their engines. Pedestrians nowadays scatter at their approach as rapidly as ever they did at the sound of the shrillest motor horn."

While Mussolini's efforts to make Rome quieter are not too successful, it is said that "ocular proof" is everywhere given of the Duke's appeal for larger families.

The battle of the 1940's is fought on the pavements, knees and stomachs, and is fought without them. Statistics of the weekly birth rate are given, the same prominence as Roman papers that our road conditions record in England.

A friend who is interested in the social niceties of Wimbledon has discovered that the chaperone is almost extinct there, writes a correspondent.

He tells me that of the 96 competitors for the Ladies' Singles (two-thirds of whom were unmarried) he could only find four who would admit to being in the honourable state of chaperones.

Two of these were English. Mrs. Round goes to Wimbledon to watch the progress of her champion daughter.

Miss Hargreaves, whom Miss Round defeated on Friday, is also accompanied by her mother.

The two foreign girls are Miss A. Lizana, the 19-year-old Chilean, and the Polish Miss J. Jedzewska. Both have brought chaperones, if only to act as guides and interpreters.

Miss Lizana has acquired English so quickly that next year she does not think she will need a chaperone.

GREATEST STAMP COLLECTOR

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
People might well be pardoned for thinking that the Hind stamp collection, which has just been sold by auction at Harpers, in New Bond-street, for a total of £172,500, was the most valuable collection in the world.

It is generally considered that the King has the finest display of British Empire stamps. The value of his collection has been variously estimated up to as much as £500,000.

And the collection in the British Museum, which was left to the nation by the late Mr. T. K. Tapping, is worth at least £250,000.

Many kings and presidents of republics have remarkably fine collections of stamps. Next to that possessed by King George, the collection of the King of Egypt is perhaps the finest of them all.

THE RIGHT TO LIVE

"The Right to Live" a Warner Bros. picture which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Alhambra Theatre, Kowloon, on Wednesday next, deals with a most daring and unusual theme in which a beautiful young woman is confronted by the problem of whether she has the right to live her own life, to love and be happy, or to remain with her hopelessly crippled husband.

In the picture a girl falls in love with her husband's brother, after the husband has been crippled by a terrific airplane crash, and is torn between her desire for love and the gaeties of life and her feeling of duty towards the man she married.

The story, based on the "Sacred Flame" by Somerset Maugham, author of "The Painted Veil" and "Of Human Bondage" is filled with intense emotional situations between the secret lovers and a startling dramatic climax in which she is accused of murdering her bed-ridden husband.

Josephine Hutchinson who recently made her bow on the screen in "Happiness Ahead" but who has long been famous for her work with Eva La Gallienne in the Civic Repertory Theatre, heads the all-star cast, in the role of the beautiful young wife.

VAGABOND LADY

A record number of sets mark "Vagabond Lady," the Hal Rosch-McG-M feature coming on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre, as one of the most costly and elaborate screen comedies to emanate from the film capital for some time. With such a variety of locales as a waterfront, a department store, the interior of a palatial home, a circus midway, the deck of a sailing sloop and more than a score of other backgrounds, the production, in its swiftly changing scenes, called forth the skill of a staff of twenty expert technicians and a crew of five hundred artisans.

Properties used in dressing this large group of settings represented a small fortune, and included valuable furnishings and equipment besides such unusual things as a crate of live lobsters, paintings of circus freaks, bales of vegetables and sundry other strange objects.

BABOONA

During the filming of their latest jungle thriller, "Baboon," now at the King's Theatre, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson helped a tribe of baboons to defend themselves against two murderous leopards. At least, they stood by ready to shoulder in case the baboons were worsted. During the battle, Johnson cracked his camera furiously.

"I had a strong inclination to shoot those two killers," says Mrs. Johnson. "Martin and I both like monkeys. They're pests sometimes, but they're really lovable and friendly beasts. I could have stopped the battle at once with my powerful rifle but Martin stopped me instead. He was right. One of the most dramatic scenes we ever photographed was being unfolded, and as long as the monkeys were deft and quick enough to hold the big cats at bay it was to our advantage to get the pictures. It was, after all, the purpose of our trip."

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

Spencer Tracy has appeared in twenty-one pictures in four years. His average is five each year. His latest is "It's A Small World," which is due on Saturday at the King's Theatre. This Fox Film comedy concerns a romance that works out of a head-on collision, through a comedy of hilarious errors.

Wendy Barrie, the British beauty, is Tracy's leading woman. Others in the cast are Raymond Walburn, Virginia Sale, Astrid Allwyn, Irving Bacon, Charles Selton, Nick Foran, Belle Daube, Frank McGlynn, Sr., Frank McGlynn, Jr., Bill Gilles, Ed Brady, and Harold Minjir.

Stubby!

MacGregor: "How did you know my barber raised his price on shaves?"
Wife: "A little beard told me."

What Was It?

He called it "Portrait of a Lady." And the critics said it was no portrait and the women said it was no lady.

IMPERIAL BANK OF INDIA

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
One of the results of the establishment of the Reserve Bank of India has been the removal of the restrictions previously imposed on the Imperial Bank of India, and this great institution, with branches in every centre of importance throughout India, Burma, and Ceylon, is now free to carry on banking business in London, and elsewhere. Moreover, under the Imperial Bank of India Act, 1920, the bank was precluded from dealing in foreign exchange business or, with certain exceptions, from opening accounts in London. Neither was the bank able to purchase or sell freely in London bills, drafts, and telegraphic transfers on India, nor to participate generally in the finance of the external trade of India. Under a new Act, however, these restrictions have also been removed, and the resulting expansion in the scope of the bank's operations is expected to result in a considerable increase in the volume of its business.

DOG SUMMONSES

A warning was given by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, the Kowloon Magistrate that all dog owners must give their correct names and address to the constable in connection with dog licences and unmuzzling cases, or else the only alternative was for the resident to be arrested on the spot.

This occurred during the hearing of a case against L. R. Idefonso, of the American Express Company, living at No. 2 Salisbury Avenue, Kowloon, who appeared at the Kowloon Magistracy on summons for keeping a dog without a licence and allowing it out in the street without a muzzle and unleashed on July 7.

In imposing a fine totalling $20, the Magistrate stated it was the usual story of the employers listening to a pack of lies from their servants, and in consequence wasting about three-quarters of an hour of the time of the Court.

A summons against Mr. H. Overy, of 3, Minden Avenue, for allowing a dog abroad without a muzzle or a lead, was answered by his wife, Mrs. Overy, and a fine of $10 was imposed.

Fines totalling $16 were imposed on Miss A. M. Hunt, of 8, Essex Crescent, Kowloon Tong, on summons for keeping a dog without a licence and allowing it abroad unmuzzled.

HIDDEN IN HIS BELT

Sentences totalling four years hard labour were imposed on Chan Ngau alias Li Kau aged 33 when he pleaded guilty, at the Criminal Session yesterday to the possession of 93 counterfeit ten cent pieces and four five cent counterfeit pieces of Hong Kong currency and of returning to Hong Kong after having been banished.

The Assistant Attorney General, Mr. J. A. Fraser, prosecuted and addressing the Court stated that on the night of June 15 a party of Revenue Officers were on duty at the Tung On Wharf when the steamer Sai On arrived. The passengers were searched, and one of the officers found the counterfeit coins in accused's belt. Accused was thereupon put under arrest. Another man was with him at the time.

Referring to the deportation charge, counsel said that the accused was banished on March 28, 1934 for a period of ten years.

ANOTHER CONVICTION

Said to have been in the company of the first accused when he was arrested, Chan Yiu, alias Chan Lo, aged 23, was sentenced to three years' hard labour on similar charges.

Mr. Fraser said the facts of the case were similar to the previous one. Accused was banished on March 1, 1933 for a period of ten years.

INDIAN SENT TO PRISON

Sentence of two months imprisonment, was passed by Mr. F. S. Balfour at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon on Mohammed Ali, who appeared before him on a remanded charge of cutting and wounding Wong Shing Mo, a hawker on June 1 at the Kowloon Godown. Mr. M. A. Silva appeared for the defence while Sub-Insp. L. R. Whant had charge of the case for the Crown.

JAPANESE WOMAN FINED

For failing to notify the Police of a change in her address, Yoshida Rini, a Japanese dress-maker was fined $15 by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning.

It was stated that defendant was an alien and as such was compelled to notify any change of address. Li Van Thuyet, an Annamite was charged with a similar offence and in addition was charged with failing to notify the Police of his arrival and departure from the Colony. He was fined $10 on each count.

Yip Pak-sau, arrested on June 16 after being banished in 1923 for life, was stated to have first been sentenced in the Colony in 1912 and had many convictions since, one of them being for serious crime. He had returned six times from banishment. A sentence of five years' hard labour was imposed.

Ho Fuk, a young Chinese who was arrested on June 13 after being banished on July 14, 1934, for life, was sentenced to two and a half years' hard labour.

RETURNED BANISHEES

Before the Police Judge, Mr. Justice Lindell at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, seven banishees who were charged with breaches of the Deportation Ordinance were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from two to ten years' hard labour.

Lo Kam was arrested on June 5 after being banished in 1933 for life. He had twice returned from banishment, and was now sentenced to three years' hard labour.

Leung Fai, arrested on June 6 after being banished last year for life, was stated to have a record going back thirty years. He had continuously disobeyed banishment orders. Accused, who said he was merely on his way to Swatow when arrested, was sentenced to four years' hard labour.

Chu Lam, arrested on June 7 after being banished for life in 1928, was said to have spent most of his life in prison and to have returned eight times to the Colony in contravention of the order made against him. He received sentence of ten years' hard labour.

Ng Kam-chuen, arrested in May after being banished for ten years in 1934, was sentenced to two years' hard labour.

WRONG SPELLING!

Tsang Tam-shun, similarly banished, and arrested, broke into English when a misunderstanding arose over the spelling of his name. "T-A-M" corrected prisoner, smilingly. He was sentenced to three years' hard labour, despite his explanation that he had returned to see his wife, children and house.

TORTUOUS BENDS

Singapore, July 14. Many accidents, some fatal, have occurred on the tortuous turns of Changi Road. But it will be a long time before any comprehensive scheme of reconstruction or widening is carried out.

During the past six months, certain work has been done on the first half-mile from the Joo Chiat Road junction to Telok Kurau. Three months hence this stretch will have an overall width of 70 feet, the highway itself being 30 feet and the remaining 40 feet being taken up by grass verges and drains on either side. It will also have a non-skid surface.

Changi Road, as far as the sixth milestone, is within the Municipal limits. Beyond that it is in the Rural Board area.

There is a large number of tortuous bends before the sixth mile but no work of reconstruction or widening for this section is contemplated by the Municipality at the moment.

Narrow and inadequately banked the road beyond is also dangerous.

In connection with the military development at Changi, a scheme of repair and widening has been considered but, it is stated, there is no likelihood of anything being done for a long time yet as there are other works to be completed, such as the road to Johore.

Meanwhile, motorists are warned to drive carefully along Singapore's most dangerous high way.

FOR THE NATION

London, June 29. When Lord Duxton bought the famous Holbein miniature of Mrs. Pemberton for $900 guineas at the Pierpont Morgan sale on Monday it was understood that the miniature was going to a Dutch collector, but to-day the National Art Collections Fund announced that it has been secured for the nation.

Lord Duxton had given $1000, while of the remaining amount the fund has contributed one-half and the National Art Collections Fund the other half. The picture is the work of Hans Holbein the Younger, and is one of the most important of the Holbein family. The miniature is now on view at the entrance to the National Gallery. The fund is now on view at the entrance to the National Gallery. The fund is now on view at the entrance to the National Gallery.

Paymaster Captain
Carter

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2. Paymaster Commander Bernard Carter, who has been placed on the retired list with the rank of paymaster captain, had reached the top of the paymaster commanders' list, to which he was promoted on June 22, 1924. He entered as an assistant clerk in July, 1902, and served as such in the Venerable, Captain G. E. Patey, when flagship of Rear-Admiral Reginald Custance in the Mediterranean. Promoted to assistant paymaster in June, 1906, he served during the War as assistant secretary to Vice-Admiral Sir Richard Peirse, Commander-in-Chief, East Indies, and in 1915-18 as Resident Naval Officer and in charge of the sub-depot at Suez. In 1923 he was appointed Resident Naval Officer at Singapore. He was accountant officer of the aircraft carrier Eagle from 1927, of the battleship Marlborough from July, 1930, and the cruiser Comus from May, 1931. His last appointment was as Registrar of the Royal Fleet Reserve, Devonport Depot, from November, 1933, to February last.

CONCERN FOR CHILDREN

Convicted Man's Appeal To Puisne Judge

"The thought of losing my wife and children after all these years of married life and all the expenses and trouble which I have gone through, with ruin facing me in the face prompted me to do the act," so said Wong Hop a 33 year old grass cutter when charged before Mr. Justice Lindell at the Criminal Sessions yesterday with (a) wounding with intent and (b) maliciously wounding his wife Ng Sheung, 26.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart Smith, assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the Crown, and the following comprised the jury: Messrs. A. V. Kinchen (foreman), R. Nazarin, Tham Khai-hung, P. D. Xavier, Wat Po-sin, Ip Hang-fong and Leung Tsai.

The trouble it was alleged by the prosecuting counsel arose through poverty in the family. The accused had been without employment and the complainant had to work to supplement the family's coffee. The money so derived proved insufficient and the accused then suggested that one of the two children should be sold. Upon the wife refusing to such a proposal the accused, it was alleged, attacked the wife with a meat chopper and inflicted many wounds.

The accused's story was a complete denial of the above facts but retailed by saying that the wife was on the point of leaving him with the children to go to another man.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

That the complainant had as many as 20 wounds on her hands and head when admitted to hospital, but which were not of a serious nature, was the medical evidence given by Dr. G. V. A. Griffith.

Describing the wounds the doctor said that they were from one to two inches in length, some of which had extended to the bone. Those wounds might have been inflicted with a meat chopper.

Cross examined by the counsel witness said that he did not think the wounds were caused by great force. The complainant was at no time in danger of losing her life.

COMPLAINANT'S STORY

Giving evidence the complainant stated that she was asked to co-habit with one So Luk and upon refusing to do so her husband suggested that they should sell one of their children.

On the morning of assault, that is May 28, the accused asked her to go and borrow money but upon being told that she did not know of anybody who would lend her money he lost his temper and attacked her.

Accused cross-examining her elicited the fact that she had co-habited with So Luk but only on the accused's request as she was previously assaulted by him when she refused. She, however, admitted taking the children away with her.

Evidence was then given by District Watchman 103, Detective Sgt. Franklin and Foo Yuk Ching, Sgt. Interpreter at the Yau-mat Police Station after which the accused elected to make his statement from the witness box.

THREATENED TO LEAVE

Wong Hop, the accused described himself as a grass cutter. Giving his version of the incident the accused said that on the morning of May 29 his wife got up earlier than usual and woke the children up. She asked them to dress and she wanted to leave the house with the children. He pleaded with her but to no avail. "According to her actions and movements she did not recognise me as her husband, so in the heat of the moment I attacked her with the chopper not caring then to treat her as my wife."

"AFTER TEN YEARS"

Continuing accused said "the thought of losing my wife and children after all these years of married life and all the expenses and trouble which I have gone through with ruin facing me in the face prompted me to do the act in a moment of rage. It is most unthinkable that a woman who is married to a man for over 10 years should do such a disgraceful thing. I do not know about the custom of the foreigners towards their wives but no Chinese would do anything but that."

The accused further said that he was ignorant of the laws here and was unaware what he did was right or wrong. He acted according to the Chinese law having no knowledge of the English law.

SUDDEN RAGE

Cross examined accused said that when he found out her relations with So Luk he took her back with the hope that she would reform. The thought of their 10 years married life and their two children made him forgive her the first time. He had no intention of hitting her. It all came in a sudden rage when she wanted to leave him.

WOMAN TO BLAME

So Luk coolie employed by the P.W.D. stated that his wages is $14.40 per month. In May he recommended the complainant to work at 183 Reclamation Street on the request of the accused. Subsequently at that address he had co-habitation with her. It was the woman herself who prompted him to the deed. He was unaware whether accused had knowledge of this or not.

His Lordship: If you commit adultery with a married woman you do not care whether the woman's husband know or not?—It was the woman herself who asked me to do such a thing; I did not ask her. Pressed further witness admitted that the accused had no knowledge of the affair.

Summing up His Lordship said that there were differences between the two counts on which the prisoner stood arraigned. In the case of wilful intent the essence of the offence is a wicked, deliberate intention to cause grievous bodily harm, but on the other hand it might be said that though there was no intent, the man was held responsible for the chopper attack.

FIT OF ANGER

It had been shown that there was no premeditation and the blow struck was in a fit of anger.

There were two stories told and his Lordship then reviewed the evidence. As regards the accused's story which was corroborated by So Luk, if the jury believed him then they should return a "not guilty" verdict on the major charge and to find him guilty on the second charge only.

UNWRITTEN LAW

The accused had appealed to the unwritten law but such a thing does not exist in Hong Kong. The accused's reliance on the unwritten law is no defence and the attacks though sudden were not premeditated.

The complainant had about 20 wounds on her and the doctor's evidence showed that they were not deliberate wounds. This evidence was somewhat in the accused's favour and therefore he could only be held guilty of the lesser charge and not the major.

After a brief retirement the jury returned a "verdict of guilty" on the second charge and the accused was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

The accused enquired of the Court what was to become of his children. He said that his wife was not fit to take care of them and his Lordship assured the accused that the matter would be referred to the S.C.A.

STANDING UP FOR THEMSELVES

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.

In his preface to "Man and the Machine," which is published today, Mr. Priestley attacks the economists and politicians. He declares that half the troubles of our time are due to the fact of these experts being years behind the inventors and engineers.

Mr. E. F. M. Durbin, however, who puts the economist's view in this industrial symposium does not take this lying down.

He claims that economists are not always wrong. They prophesied:

(1) The dangers of our return to the Gold Standard in 1925.

(2) The world recovery which he holds is now taking place.

He adds that many economists predicted the depression.

Sir Arnold Wilson, who writes presumably for the politicians, is also able to stand up for himself.

THE NEW AIR MARSHAL

Sir Cyril Newall

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.

Among the half-yearly promotions in the Royal Air Force announced by the Air Ministry at the week-end are the following, with effect from July 1:—

General Duties Branch.—Air Vice-Marshal to be Air Marshal: Cyril Louis Norton Newall, K.C.B. Air Commodore to be Air Vice-Marshal: Henry Meyrick Cave-Browne-Cave, D.S.O.

Group Captains to be Air Commodores—John Charles Quinell, D.F.C.; Andre Adolphe Walser, M.C.; Lionel Douglas Dalzell McKean, John Stanley Travers Bradley, William Sholto Douglas, M.C.

A PIONEER PILOT

Air Vice-Marshal Newall, who received a Knighthood in the Jubilee Honours List, was appointed to the Air Council in January as an additional member.

He has a distinguished service record, and is one of four officers on the active list of the R.A.F. who took their pilots' certificate as long ago as 1911. After serving in the Army he joined the Royal Flying Corps in 1914, commanding a brigade in the war. He was awarded the Albert Medal for conspicuous gallantry in 1916, and was three times mentioned in despatches.

After the war he became Chief Staff Officer for the South-Eastern Area and Deputy Director of Personnel at the Air Ministry. He was promoted Air Vice-Marshal in January, 1930.

NEW AIR VICE-MARSHAL

Air Commodore H. M. Cave-Browne-Cave was in command of the Far East flight of four flying boats which left England in October, 1927, for Singapore and afterwards flew round Australia to Hong Kong and back, a distance of over 27,000 miles. He was the first Commanding Officer, and in 1931 became Director of Technical Development at the Air Ministry.

Group Captain McKean was a prisoner in Germany from 1915 to March, 1918, but managed to return home in time for the formation of the R.A.F.

Group Captain Walser was a Squadron commander of the Royal Flying Corps in the war. Group Captain Quinell has specialised in navigation, and was in command of the School of Naval Cooperation at Lee-on-Solent from 1931-1934.

HONG KONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION

At the special request of the Council of the above Association, the Hong Kong Broadcasting Committee have kindly consented, if the programme and time allows, to re-broadcast a short extract of the shooting of the final stage of H.M. the King's Prize at Bisley, tomorrow (Saturday).

As the shooting starts at 3 p.m. (B.S.T.) the relay should be heard between 11 p.m. and midnight in Hong Kong.

FALL FROM TREE

A Chinese lad 14 years of age, was removed yesterday to the Government Civil Hospital in an unconscious condition, as a result of a fall from a tree.

The unfortunate boy, whose name is Tai Leung, of No. 8 Belchers Street, was bird-nesting at the time in the vicinity of the Fire Brigade Station, when he missed his footing and fell heavily to the ground.

WOMAN'S SUICIDE

A gruesome discovery was made early yesterday, when the inmates of No. 55 Des Voeux Road, Central second floor, found a woman named Wai Chuen, hanging from the cross piece of a bedstead in one of the rooms.

The Police were at once communicated with and a thorough investigation was carried out. No foul play is suspected as circumstances indicate that the unfortunate woman took her own life, by means of utilizing a leather belt with which she hung herself.

The discovery was made at 12.45 in the afternoon. Deceased who is said to have been depressed lately by family trouble was the wife of Keung Chuen Tat, who is employed in an European hotel.

ANTI-PIRACY SQUADS

How The Searches Are Made

The exact procedure adopted by the Water Police in sending anti-piracy search squads to board all out-going vessels from Hong Kong, was given by Sub-Inspector L. R. Whant at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, when Captain W. B. Patey of the Douglas Steamship Company vessel "Halching" was charged before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones with the following offence, namely, "being the master of a ship required to be searched under the Suppression of Piracy regulation did commence a voyage at a time not previously notified to, and not approved by the Hon. I. G. P., 4.55 p.m. on July 2."

Sergeant Davitt had charge of the case for the prosecution, while Mr. O. E. C. Martin appeared for the defence. Mr. C. L. Farmer, Secretary of the Douglas S.S. Company, was also present in Court.

Stating that the anti-piracy search squads were under his control, Sub-Inspector Whant informed the Court that a squad composed of thirty Chinese constables, two lance sergeants, four female searchers, and two European sergeants.

All shipping companies are, by law, compelled to state the time and place of sailing. On receipt of such notice, a squad boards the ship one and a half to two hours before the time of sailing, if possible.

CHANGE OF TIME

After receipt of the original notification, another communication, in writing or verbally, would be accepted provided it were given within a reasonable time. If the search squad was already on the harbour or on its way to a ship, it would be recalled by messages from the Water Police Station.

If the squad on boarding a vessel were informed verbally by a responsible officer that the ship could not, possibly sail in the stated time, this squad would be taken away to search another vessel and would return later to carry out its duties.

If the captain of the ship where the search had been completed, informed the sergeant in charge of the search party, that his vessel would sail some fifteen minutes later than the stated time, and providing there were no other boats to be searched, no action would be taken.

If however there were other ships to be searched immediately, and the delay in sailing was only a short while, a constable of the squad would be placed on board at the gangway.

THREE VESSELS SEARCHED

Continuing, Sub-Inspector Whant said that in the event of three ships sailing in close proximity of each other, the squad would search the ship with the least passengers first, and a man would be posted on board, and the squad would then split up into two sections to search the remaining vessels.

On the day in which the offence occurred, the search squad boarded the s.s. "Sing Kiang" which sailed at 2 p.m., the s.s. "Paul Doumergue" which sailed at 3.15 p.m. and three other vessels were all searched after the s.s. "Halching" sailed, at seven, eight and nine o'clock respectively.

Before closing his evidence, witness said that when a ship delays for any length of time, the Master of the vessel in question is served with instructions of the regulations relating to the offence, for which a signed receipt from the Master is obtained.

TWO CHARGES

Sergeant G. N. Davitt then gave evidence. He said that on July 2 he was with the squad and he received a notification that the s.s. "Halching" was lying off Yau-mat Bay and would be leaving at 3 p.m. The searching squad boarded this vessel at 1.40 p.m. and completed their search at 2.55 p.m.

He saw the Chief Officer who informed him that the ship would sail at 4 p.m., but at 3.20 p.m. the Captain boarded the ship and said that would not sail until 5 p.m.

The "Halching" actually sailed at 4.55 p.m. that day.

As a result, the s.s. "Paul Doumergue" was delayed ten minutes in her sailing time, but no objections were raised by the skipper of this vessel.

SQUALLY DAY

The day in question was very squally, said witness and he admitted that the Chief Officer had informed him that the loading operations had been held up during the morning and early afternoon.

Witness agreed with the defendant's counsel, that the Douglas Officers usually did all they could to assist the Police officers although late in leaving.

The cargo being loaded on the "Halching" was composed of flour and iron rods.

CAPTAIN'S EVIDENCE

Captain Patey in evidence said that all efforts were made to expedite the loading of cargo. "One could not say with certainty how long it would take to load. I cannot say how quickly these coolies work. It depends on how they feel."

Under the circumstances, witness said that it was quite impossible to say with any certainty, whatsoever, how long it would take to load a ship.

DISCHARGED WITH CAUTION

Mr. A. Petrie, Chief Officer of the "Halching" quite candidly said that he saw no reason at the time for telling the Police earlier that the ship would not be able to sail on time.

Stating that this reply rather shocked him the Magistrate remarked that he "thought it was the source of all the trouble."

Mr. Martin, defending counsel rose stated that they admitted a technical offence. He explained however that the last witness had only been with the Company for one month and therefore may not have known, or been well acquainted with the regulations in question.

After some deliberation, the Magistrate discharged Captain Patey, with a caution.

AN APOLOGY

Matara (Ceylon).

A settlement has been arrived at in the case in which Dr. O. H. A. S. B. Paulickpulle, L.R.C.P. and S. (Edin.), L.F.P. and S. (Glas.), House Surgeon of the Civil Hospital, Matara, sued Mr. G. A. Jayawardene, Registrar of Lands, Matara, for damages in Rs. 20,000 for falsely and maliciously making statements to several people, including Mr. S. H. Wadia, the then A.G.A., Matara.

The case which came up for trial before Mr. C. E. de Pinto, District Judge, was settled on the defendant apologising to the plaintiff in Court and promising to pay Rs. 1,000.

Mr. R. L. Pereira, K.C., assisted by Mr. H. A. Kottegoda, and instructed by Mr. T. F. Paulickpulle, appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. N. E. Weerasooriya, assisted by Mr. S. S. Jayawickreme, and instructed by Mr. E. P. Wijetunga, appeared for the defendant. The case was called about 11.30 a.m. and the issues were framed when the Court adjourned for lunch. On resumption after lunch the parties had arrived at a settlement and a motion was filed for the withdrawal of the case.

NO COSTS

At the request of Mr. R. L. Pereira, K.C., the judge read out the terms of the motion, which were as follows:

"The parties having arrived at a settlement, the defendant expresses his regret and apologises to the plaintiff for any statements made by him concerning plaintiff, and for the pain of mind caused to him thereby, pays a sum of Rs. 1,000 to the plaintiff and the plaintiff withdraws his case without costs."

"Every statement of the defendant was based on the complaints of the woman Hinalhamy and the defendant personally knows nothing against the character of the plaintiff in this case."

The judge allowed the application and the motion was dismissed without costs.

NAVAL ENTERTAINERS

In each one of its annual issues, "Brassey's," that most excellent of naval annuals, a great deal of space—some even go so far as to call it an excessive proportion—is devoted to chapters by various experts on naval policy, and while they are not so solidly useful as the statistics, which incidentally are always accurate, and ship photographs, a lot of harmless amusement can be got out of them. In each issue, one gathers that the British Navy is in a "pretty bad way" and each time there is the decorous suggestion that something should be done about it. This happens with such regularity, that one wonders indeed if there was ever a time from the days of good King Alfred onwards when the position of the British navy would have entirely satisfied some of the pessimists who so freely air their views in the publication in question. For instance, in this year's issue, which was published recently, one finds that Britain's position is "most humiliating" in comparison with that of the United States and Japan, "rivals however friendly." The British air strength is also "lamentably in default" while another writer holds the opinion that our navy would be "hard put to it in an emergency."

After this cheery preparation for a January morning, we can go to Capt. A. C. Dewar's chapter on "Disarmament" which is chiefly devoted to showing how impossible it is. The chapter is prefaced by the writer with a quotation about "Cuckoo in the Clouds" from Aristophanes which he evidently considers appropriate. Like so many of the old school, in Brassey's pages and outside them, Capt. Dewar is obviously greatly distressed by such regrettable recent developments as the League system and the aspirations of foolish people towards something called "collective security." His argument is plentifully sprinkled with "aggressive pacifists," "militant clergymen," and many other similarly dangerous monsters. No one of these bogies is quite so terrifying, however, as the combination, so frequent among opponents of the peace movement, of great technical knowledge with antique or rudimentary political ideas, but when one pauses to consider the whole situation, it is perhaps something that the new ideas should now be making our "experts" so angry, for even in strange places the heaven is working.

EDEN'S MEETING WITH MUSSOLINI

Discussions On Naval Pact And Abyssinia

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.

Mr. Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs, in reply to a question by Mr. Lansbury, made the following statement in the House of Commons yesterday on his visit to Rome and Paris:

The object of the visit which, on the instructions of his Majesty's Government, I recently made to Paris, was two-fold.

His Majesty's Government wished, in the first place, to take the earliest opportunity of giving the French Government a full and frank explanation on the subject of the Anglo-German Naval Agreement. They also wished to consider, in consultation with the French Government, ways and means of making progress as quickly as possible with the negotiations on all the matters enumerated in the London communiqué of Feb. 3.

As regards the Anglo-German Naval Agreement, I gave the French Prime Minister an account of the contents of the agreement itself, and described to him the circumstances in which it was negotiated and the reasons which led his Majesty's Government to conclude it.

M. Laval explained, with equal frankness, the view which the French Government take of this agreement. He also explained his view of its bearing on the various European problems in the solution of which the two Governments are engaged.

CLOSE CO-OPERATION

It was recognised in the course of this conversation that for the settlement of these questions, such as, for example, the air pact on air limitation, the Eastern Pact, the Central European Pact, and agreement on land armaments, close co-operation between France and Great Britain was necessary. These are, however, questions which do not interest France and Great Britain alone.

We are, therefore, at present seeking, in conjunction with the French Government, a form of collaboration best designed to secure the fulfilment, as quickly as possible, by all countries of the programme of the London communiqué of February 3.

At the close of the discussion on these same subjects which I held subsequently with Signor Mussolini in Rome, we were happy to be able to record agreement as to the possibility of continuing the work for European appeasement in accordance with the guiding principles laid down in the communiqué of February 3 and the Stresa resolution.

There is now, therefore, reason to hope that the best line of negotiation may shortly be found. (Cheers.)

Moreover, I cannot doubt that, although the three Governments may not attach the same importance or ascribe the same urgency to all the various items of the programme, it should be possible, to agree on a method whereby, in free and equal negotiations with other Governments, they may unite to contribute to a solution of these problems.

ABYSSINIA PROBLEM

I now turn to the dispute between Italy and Abyssinia, in regard to which I had a conversation with Signor Mussolini on June 24 and 25.

I expressed to Signor Mussolini the grave concern of his Majesty's Government at the turn which events were taking between Italy and Abyssinia. Our methods were neither egoistic nor dictated by our interests in Africa, but by our membership of the League of Nations. (Cheers.)

I said that British foreign policy was founded on the League, and his Majesty's Government could not therefore remain indifferent to events which might profoundly affect the League's future. (Cheers.)

On this issue public opinion in this country felt very strongly. It was only through collective security that, in our judgment, peace could be preserved, and only through the League that Great Britain could play her full part in Europe.

It was for these reasons that his Majesty's Government had been anxiously studying whether there was any constructive contribution which they could make in order to promote a solution.

I was authorised to make to him an alternative suggestion to obtain a final settlement of the dispute between Italy and Abyssinia. His Majesty's Government would be prepared to offer to Abyssinia a strip of territory in British Somaliland giving access to the sea.

This proposal was intended to facilitate action by Abyssinia which might involve a settlement. We asked for no concession in return for these arrangements save grazing rights for tribes in such territory as might be ceded to Italy.

This suggestion was not lightly made, and only the gravity of the situation would lead us to give up British territory in this way. This suggestion did not commend itself to Signor Mussolini, who was unable to accept it as a basis for the solution of the dispute.

I returned to Paris and I gave to M. Laval an account of what had passed between myself and Signor Mussolini.

DEMAND FOR DEBATE

Mr. Lansbury then asked if the Prime Minister would say when they would be in a position to discuss the matter and what steps would be taken in order to bring the pressure of public opinion in Europe upon the Italian Government in respect of this dispute.

The reason he asked this was because in the past things were allowed to drift in regard to the Far East, and Japan, in defiance both of Europe and her own signature to the Nine Power Pact, had taken action in China.

Sir Samuel Hoare replied that he was not able to give a specific answer or fuller details at the present, but hoped to do so in the future.

Mr. Lansbury: We are anxious to safeguard ourselves against another accomplished fact in regard to Abyssinia.

Mr. Dickie (L. N. Consett) said he would like to have an assurance, before any British territory was ceded, that the House would be consulted.

Sir Samuel Hoare: The House must trust the Executive Government in this matter. If it is not prepared to trust the Government, the whole basis of government is destroyed. (Cries of "No, no.")

Mr. McGovern (I.L.P., Shetleston): That is dictatorship with a vengeance.

Mr. Dickie said it was a matter of vital principle, and the last word in the ceding of British territory and British subjects to another Government must rest with the House.

Sir Samuel Hoare replied that the proposal had been described as a tentative proposal and was an attempt to settle a very critical situation which might have disastrous reactions all round. There was no question of going behind the back of the House. The necessity had arisen for the Government to try to take the necessary steps to arrive at a satisfactory settlement of a dangerous situation.

Mr. Sandys (C. Lambeth) asked whether the offer mentioned was still open or whether it had been turned down.

Sir Samuel Hoare replied that the tentative suggestion which was made had not been accepted, and the assumption, therefore, was that it no longer was open.

AVIATOR FAILS TO ARRIVE

Japanese On Solo Flight

K. Ano, the first Japanese aviator to attempt a flight from England to the Far East was expected to arrive here yesterday afternoon from Hanoi, but up to the time of going to Press no news of his whereabouts has been received locally.

Cabled news received by the Japanese Consulate early yesterday morning stated that Ano had left Hanoi at 10.30 a.m. and he was therefore expected to land at Kai Tak, at 5 p.m. in the afternoon.

A goodly crowd of interested spectators and well-wishers of the courageous aviator assembled at the aerodrome to greet him, but were keenly disappointed with his non-arrival.

Enquiries at the Japanese Consulate elicited no further information, the "Daily Press" being informed that no cable as to the aviator's whereabouts had been received.

No alarm is being felt for the safety of the lone Japanese trail-maker, for it is assumed that he may have returned to Hanoi, probably owing to unfavourable weather conditions.

It will be recalled that Ano left Hanoi aerodrome in England recently with the intention of establishing a record from England to Japan. He flew via the Imperial Airways route as far as Singapore, then continued over French territory to Saigon and Hanoi. Hong Kong is to be the next halt, whence it is presumed he will fly to Shanghai on a single hop, and then to Japan, traversing over the steamship lanes.

It is felt more likely, however, that Ano will fly from here to Formosa, and thence to Japan, spanning the distance between the two islands by flying over the Mandated Islands en route.

Ano is flying an aeroplane of British manufacture, and but for bad luck, which seems to have dogged him since he left the shores of England behind, he would have made better progress.

ANOTHER SUICIDE

The body of a Chinese female bearing fresh marks, was removed to the Kowloon Mortuary yesterday morning after she was found dead, hanging from the support of a verandah window.

Her name was given as Yuen Kwan Ho, 20 years of age of No. 77 Tong Mei Road, first floor, and the discovery was made by the husband Wong Sang.

Deceased at the time was dressed in a white jacket and black cotton trousers, with no socks or shoes on. No suspicion is attached to anyone, the circumstances pointing to the unfortunate woman taking her own life.

CIGARETTE INFRINGEMENT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Shanghai, July 12. Fines ranging from $50 to $300 were imposed by Judge Wong in the First Special District Court yesterday morning upon a group of 10 Chinese including a woman, who were charged with infringing the trade mark of the British-American Tobacco Company, and cigarette labels.

Seven of the 10 accused upon being questioned by the Judge denied any knowledge that they were doing anything wrong and stated that they were merely employees. They said they worked at the Kwanning Road establishment and received their wages regularly and did not know that making cigarette labels was a crime. Upon it being pointed out to them that they were infringing well-known brands, they again pleaded ignorance.

ASSAULTING JAPANESE In the same court, Dzeng Mien-fah was arrested by a Japanese police constable on July 8 and brought before the court two days ago on a complaint lodged by M. Shimizu, a Japanese, on a charge of assault. The case was remanded for further hearing. On July 10, another man named, Tsing Ching, was taken into custody by a Japanese police constable, charged with having been implicated in the affair. According to the complainant, the two threw stones and other missiles at him on point Road near Alcock Road.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(BY NO QUARTER)

Let me open on a quiet note this week. I am not really one of these out and out fighters; a quiet life is worth much more to me than the O.B.E. and Bar which I have so constantly refused.

And if anybody says Addis Abbaba to me for at least 24 hours, I shall cut out their livers with a blunt trowel.

No, but seriously, I have always held the view that I should be bought for the Nation. Amid rustic surroundings of almost inconceivable beauty, (equipped, of course, with running water H. and C. and the usual offices); I should be allowed to amble out my days, occasionally exuding one of those fragments of exquisite loveliness that have made me so justly famous. And only justly.

One of Napoleon's Marshals, known as "Le vieux Guillaume" once remarked:—"Si vous savez d'un meilleur trou, y-allez." He had, of course, been reared on cod-liver oil and Maltke. (Hollow laughter from the office boy, who owes me $5.00).

IF GOSSIP WRITERS WERE CANDID

I dropped into the hotel the other night and saw Fluffy Gunter looking very charming. I thought Mrs. Bugs Aaron was looking very charming, and Lella Kabb was looking very charming, I thought. Other people who impressed me as looking very charming were Captain Poco Plano, of the Italian Marines, and Lady Lettuce Leicesterwrs (which is, of course, pronounced Lettuce). She looked particularly charming.

A little bird whispered to me that Cupid might have some business to transact shortly with Ida Gurr, one of our most charming sub-debs. She is, of course, lovelier than ever.

Mrs. Ruglison was drunk as usual, and ex-Captain Sias Gurge was sick on the floor. It was a charming evening.

EXTRACTS FROM MY MAIL

Dear No Quarter. I am the mother of eleven children, all of whom are roughly the same age, and I like to send them to play in the public playgrounds in Kowloon. Lately, Chinese coolies have been pushing their faces through the railings and watching them. I do not think it is right that any body, no matter whom, should be allowed to watch British Children playing, particularly mine. Can nothing be done about this monstrous outrage?

Yours indignantly,

MOTHER OF ELEVEN (one more expected).

LOCAL AND GENERAL

A case of suspected kidnapping has been reported to the Police. The inmates of No. 171 Temple Street ground floor have reported that a 15-year-old lad, named Lam Wai residing at the same address has not returned home for three days. At the time of going to press, the Police have not heard anything that might throw light on the affair.

While two brothers were playing with some molten wax contained in a pot, it suddenly upset and badly scalded one of the two lads. As a result Lam Yung, 10 years of age residing at 135 Second Street, ground floor was removed to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday suffering from severe burns over his body, and his condition is said to be serious.

THE EXPERIMENT FAILS

Recreio Goes Down To The Bowling Green

BY "F. B."

The bold experiment put into practice by the league leaders did not come up to expectations with the result that another surprise was created last week by their defeat at hands of the Kowloon Bowling Green. The rest of the games were very tame compared to some of the earlier fixtures.

The Recreio-Bowling Green match provided the former with another reverse. They played with a new combination, allowing two of their rinks that are still in the running for the open rink competitions to take the field instead of playing with their usual team. Such a move was hardly wise in the present stage when every point counts.

The Police played up well in only one of the three rinks. Too much was expected of the indomitable "C. G." who could only return a credit of 15 shots. This was not enough to offset the deficit of the other two rinks. Both H. A. Alves and L. A. Gutierrez were unable to find their form. Alves could do very little against A. M. Holland. He was eclipsed by the ex-champion while Alves' only asset was his ability to draw. J. C. Brown and his men found C. G. Silva's rink a very tough proposition and they were beaten on almost every move. The deficit of only 15 shots spoke volumes for the Bowling Green skip. Brown was instrumental in saving many a valuable shot which another skip might well have lost.

INDIANS TO WIN?

To-morrow Recreio are playing away, against the Indians. The Indians have so far won four matches all home matches. Their win over the Police last week was largely due to the fact that the Police found the Sookunpoo green somewhat strange. The police more than held their own despite this disadvantage but McHardy's rink let them down.

There was only one player, G. Perkins, who was in form while the other three were far below their usual standard. It must, in fairness to A. O. Madar, be said that he and his men were equal to the occasion. There was a keen struggle between A. R. Minu and W. E. Hollands which resulted in a tie of 19 shots all. Wahab's rink went down by 5 shots to Shepherd's.

It is reputed that the Indians are the only one able to master the Sookunpoo green. In this respect the Recreio will have to be very careful and if they are going to win, they will have to be extra careful as another loss will jeopardise their chances for the championship.

All in all I think the odds are on the Portuguese boys and I think they should just about do it.

INTER CLUB STRUGGLE

The C.C.C. "A" are playing their "B" this week. Their victory over the K.C.C. last week was in every way expected. There was very little opposition forthcoming from the Kowloon Cricketers. Only one rink gave the Valley lads a struggle and that was Fraser's four. The C.C.C. crack skip—Omar—had a lot to think in this match. Fraser and his boys were playing as well as could be expected. On several heads they had Omar guessing but that veteran had things up his sleeves and just emerged with the required wood to put matters right for them.

Silkstone's welcome return to the K. C. C. added stimulus to this rink and with E. C. Fincher and H. Gittins giving Fraser all the support it was no wonder that Omar found difficulty in overcoming this rink.

Hyde-Lay found R. F. Luz in his form of old. He was unable to shake Luz off and eventually lost by 9 shots while R. P. Phillips was trounced by Bradbury's rink to the tune of 13 shots.

GLORIOUS WIN

It was a glorious day for the Civil Servants when they broke their "duck" at the expense of the C.C.C. "B" last week. Their victory was in no way a fluke. A. W. Grimmer and his men proved to be a thorn on their opponent's side. Their 17 shots advantage played the way to their victory. Grimmer's support was given him by his clubmates. Givansah was not comfortable. He found in Grimmer on the day's play his master as skip but if he had received the same backing as Grimmer, perhaps the outcome might have been different.

Arculli's valiant effort to stem the tide proved unavailing. His was the only rink that was up and a 9 shots credit was not enough to offset matters when the other two rinks were down by over ten shots.

I should not take too much for granted but unless some extraordinary situation crop up the C.C.C. "B" is due for another defeat this week at the hands of the "A" team.

BOWLING GREEN SHOULD WIN

After their recent success over the Recreio, the Bowling Green will start with confidence in their match against the Kowloon Docks. On paper the Docks are quite a formidable lot and should just about give the Bowling Green a good run for the points.

Will the K.C.C. be able to break their sequence of defeats? They are up against the Police, who it must be said, were beaten last week more by the green than by the Indians themselves.

The K.C.C. is still lacking team work. They have as good a playing team as any other clubs but their inability to get together and understand each other's player has been the main cause of their defeats.

If they will pull themselves together this Saturday they may be able to achieve what they have not been able to do for such long time.

As expected the Cricketers again lost to the "fancied" title seekers, "Craigengower A" by 29 shots. The only K.C.C. rink that gave them a bit of trouble was that skipped by Fraser against Omar. This match was very evenly contested there being only one shot difference at the 17th head but Omar by brilliant bowling placed them 3 up at the end of the 21st head. Gittins played well and had his opponent summons well beaten. Silkstone and Sousa at 2's also played a steady game. Beer, Fincher and Fraser also gave a good account of themselves but it was Omar who was mainly responsible for their win, his drawing and driving being really excellent.

Phillips had had luck in that his No. 1 Overy and Goodwin at No. 2 were completely overawed by Coates and Gomes who were very deadly. Rumjahn also played well putting Hyde in the shade. Bradbury had very little to do except to put in blocks which gave Phillips very little chance to draw.

Hyde-Lay's rink were not playing well at all and if their opponents had been playing well they would have suffered a very heavy defeat. Luz, I am told was the pick of the rinks with Lay a good second.

This week the Cricketers have again changed their rinks—the skips being Fraser, Silkstone and Hyde Lay with their three Phillips, Bebbington and Craig respectively. The rinks appear to be very well balanced and there is every hope of a win against the Police on Saturday.

THE JUNIORS

The unexpected defeat of the Bowling Green by the Recreio last week has enabled the Recreio to creep up nearer to the leaders, only a matter of two points separating the two. This week Recreio should not be having much trouble in obtaining the two much needed points. The Electric R.C. though able to give them a good game will not be able to stem their advances.

The same cannot be said of the Bowling Green in their match against Talkoo who are close on the heels of Recreio.

Bowling Green have lost their form of the earlier part of the season. They must watch their step carefully if they intend to preserve their position. Talkoo is a formidable lot and should give the Bowling Green a very close race for the points.

The Police-K.C.C. game should be a close tussle. Both teams are about of equal calibre. K.C.C. should just about get the better of the Police. C.C.C. and O.C.C. should win their matches.

LOCAL RUGGER

Australians To Play Here?

The Rugby Section of the Hong Kong Football Club have written to the New Zealand Rugby Association to arrange games with the rugby tourist of that country, who, it is anticipated, will include Hong Kong as a port of call on their way to Japan, where they will engage Japanese fifteens in a series of games in Tokyo and Osaka, in January next year.

The result of this communication between Hong Kong and New Zealand will be awaited with tremendous interest.

It will be recalled that last year Hong Kong engaged the Australian Universities fifteen in two games, being victorious on both occasions. G. P. Lammert being responsible for a try in the last minute of the latter encounter, which proved to be the only points scored that day.

AQUATICS

D.B.S. Meeting

The individual swimming championship was won by A. J. Hulze with a total of 16 points, at the Diocesan Boys' School aquatic championships which was held at Stonecutters last Wednesday.

The Green House won the Inter-House Challenge Trophy by one point from Blue House with Yellow House a good third only 10 points behind the leaders.

The results were as follows:

100 Yards Free Style (Seniors):
—1. J. Dudley; 2. A. J. Hulze; 3. A. Dalziel.
50 Yards Free Style (Junior):
—1. A. J. Hulze; 2. E. Cheung; 3. J. Dudley.

Junior Diving:—1. A. Lapsley; 2. J. Jarrett; 3. A. Lew Gus.
Senior Diving:—1. J. Dudley; 2. A. J. Hulze; 3. Chang Kwong-hsin.
400 Yards Free Style (Seniors):
—1. A. J. Hulze; 2. J. Dudley; 3. E. Cheung.

Junior Relay:—1. Blue House; 2. Green House.
Senior Relay:—1. Blue House; 2. Green House; 3. Yellow House.

Individual Championship:
A. J. Hulze 16 points.
J. Dudley 14 points.

YESTERDAY'S MATCH

Playing in the C.C.C. Open Singles Lawn Bowls Championship in the second round, A. A. Razack lost to R. Bassa on the 22nd head by 21 shots to 18 after a very evenly contested encounter.

The game was keenly fought throughout, the result being in doubt until the 22nd head when Bassa clinched matters.

In the second round of the Open Pairs M. J. Medina and A. E. Coates eliminated A. F. Paul and A. S. Gomes by 30 shots to 12. The result of this game was never in doubt, Medina and Coates being superior to their clubmates and had very little opposition with which to contend against.

I.R.C. TEAM

The following players have been selected to represent the Indian Recreation Club vs. Club de Recreio on Saturday, 20th July, 1935 at 3.30 p.m. at Sookunpoo:
M. R. Abbas, S. O. Bux, M. Y. Adal, A. O. Madar (Skip); J. Hosen, A. Baker, A. M. Wahab, A. R. Minu (Skip); A. H. Rumjahn, S. M. Rumjahn, D. M. Khan, A. R. Dallah (Skip).

LONG DISTANCE RECORD FOR FLYING BOATS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright) 1935)

A long distance record for flying boats which was established by the French hydroplane "Croix de Sud" with a flight from Cherbourg to French Guinea four weeks ago, had been beaten by the Italian "Hydra" boat, "Sancti Pity" which, with a crew of three, took off on Tuesday from the Montaleone airport and landed on Wednesday morning at Berbera, in British Somaliland, having covered 3084 miles in a little less than 25 hours.

The French record stood at 2658 miles.—

LEAGUE TENNIS

Indians Win At Sookunpoo

In a very interesting clash between the Indian Recreation Club and the Club de Recreio "A", in the "A" Division of the tennis league, the home team, who were well served by H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar and ran out winners by 6 sets to 3.

For the first time this season the formidable Rumjahn combination was split separated, and Madar who partnered "H. D." yesterday afternoon proved a great success, the pair combining very well to win their three sets.

S. A. Ismail who partnered S. A. Rumjahn, also played a good game with his new colleague, and helped to make victory for the home team certain in their last set against H. A. Barros and F. J. Remedios.

The scores were:—
H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar (I.R.C.):

beat A. V. Remedios and J. Gonsalves 6-3
beat A. V. Gosano and C. A. Barretto 6-4
beat H. A. Barros and F. J. Remedios 6-3

F. D. Pereira and A. M. Rumjahn (I.R.C.):

lost to A. V. Remedios and J. Gonsalves 0-6
lost to A. V. Gosano and C. A. Barretto 2-6
beat H. A. Barros and F. J. Remedios 7-5

S. A. Ismail and S. A. Rumjahn (I.R.C.):

lost to A. V. Remedios and J. Gonsalves 3-6
beat A. V. Gosano and C. A. Barretto 6-4
beat H. A. Barros and F. J. Remedios 6-3

K.C.C. "A" WIN

In an "A" Division Tennis match at the K.C.C. courts, the C.C.C. were beaten by the home team by 5 sets to 4. Both teams were evenly matched, but the Fincher brothers were conspicuous in their understanding and it was mainly through their efforts that their Club gained the victory.

The scores were as follows:
E. C. Fincher and E. F. Fincher (K.C.C.):

beat J. W. Leonard and G. Lal 6-3
beat Y. Hachuma and R. Choa 6-0
beat F. A. Zimmerman and A. B. Hanson 6-2

M. Pagh and F. Grose (K.C.C.):
lost to J. W. Leonard and G. Lal 2-6
lost to Y. Hachuma and R. Choa 2-6

F. Thomson and N. A. E. Mackay (K.C.C.):

lost to J. W. Leonard and G. Lal 0-6
beat Y. Hachuma and R. Choa 7-5
lost to F. A. Zimmerman and A. B. Hanson 4-6

"C" DIVISION

Easy Win For C.R.C.

Playing on the C.C.C. the home team lost to the C.R.C. in the "C" Division by 8 sets to 1.

The C.C.C. could offer very little if any opposition to the favourites for the championship.

The results were:
W. J. Howard and A. Kitchell (C.C.C.):

lost to M. C. Lau and C. Y. Tso 1-6 beat K. C. Luk and M. K. Lau 7-5
lost to W. K. Cheung and Au King 0-6

G. Kelly and A. J. Coelho (C.C.C.):

lost to Cheung and King 0-6

C. E. Abbas and Wei Chung (C.C.C.):

lost to Lau and Tso 3-6
lost to Luk and Lau 2-6
lost to Cheung and King 0-6

A CLOSE GAME

On the S.C.A.A. courts the home team defeated the K.I.T.C. by 5 sets to 4. The teams were evenly matched but the Indians were a bit nervous and lost the first two sets giving the Chinese a lead which they forced home to good advantage.

The score was:—
H. Chan and S. Chan (S.C.A.A.):

beat M. A. Khan and F. Khan 6-1
lost to Dr. H. M. Singh and Feros Ali 6-4 beat Jehan Dad and A. Khan 6-3

N. K. Ma and C. H. Ong (S.C.A.A.):

U. S. BASEBALL

Two Double-Headers

Neither the New York Yankees nor the Detroit Tigers were engaged in matches in the American Baseball League to-day, the fixture between the Tigers and the Athletics being postponed while the Yankees were not scheduled to play.

The Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox were engaged in a double header which was won by the Boston outfit, who scored a 13-5 victory in the first game and a 3-1 win in the second.

In a double header in the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers won both matches from Pittsburgh Pirates, who were blanked out in the second tie.

The Giants are still winning and against the Cincinnati Reds they scored six runs to their opponents' three.

Here is Health

This is the opinion that medical men have of Sanatogen; and when it is remembered that more than 25,000 physicians have written about the gratifying results they have obtained with Sanatogen, it becomes evident that you can trust this really exceptional tonic to help you, too.

Prof. Mann, formerly of Oxford University, explained the reason for the wonderful influence of Sanatogen on health, in these words: "A building-up process goes on in the nerves after the administration of Sanatogen."

Start improving your health to-day. Take Sanatogen, and notice how fatigue and nervousness disappear. Take Sanatogen, and in a few weeks you will feel and look better than you have done for years. Follow the advice of these physicians and enjoy once more that sense of youthful health.

FOUR NATIONS

In Tennis Semi-Final

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
Four representatives of four nations emerged from yesterday's play to contest the semi-finals of the Men's Singles at Wimbledon.

The matches will be:
F. J. Perry (Great Britain) (holder) v. J. H. Crawford (Australia) and
D. Budge (America) v. G. von Cramm (Germany).

Yesterday was the beginning of the second week, and there was, for this period of the tournament, a record attendance.

Altogether 24,000 people saw the tennis. At one time 15,000 spectators were assembled round the Centre Court.

People began to queue early. By noon "house full" boards were displayed.

QUEEN WATCHES AUSTIN
The Queen, who was dressed in deep blue, paid her first visit this year, and stayed three hours. She was loudly cheered by the crowd on her arrival.

First she saw J. H. Crawford, of Australia, defeat S. B. Wood, of America. Then she watched two sets of the match between H. V. Austin and D. Budge, of America.

She followed the contests keenly, and applauded winning shots. The end of the second set between Austin and Budge—which was the last the Queen saw—was dramatic.

Austin had won the first set, and was 5-2 in the next, but Budge recovered, and won by 10-8.

After the Queen's departure the two players fought a grim contest, but Austin finally succumbed, the score being: 3-5, 10-8, 6-4, 7-5.

The exhausted Austin lay on his back for a long time before he was able to leave the court with the victor. The match lasted 2 hours 10 minutes.

BRILLIANT PERRY
Hopes that Perry will retain the men's singles championship were strengthened by his brilliant win over Roderich Menzel, the tall Czechoslovakian.

After nearly losing the first set Perry produced devastating tennis. Nothing like his play in the second and third sets has been seen at Wimbledon this year, and during this period he overwhelmed his opponent. The final score was 9-7, 6-1, 6-1.

To-day the semi-finalists in the women's singles will be known. Miss Round meets Miss Joan Hartigan, of Australia, who reached the last four last year. Mrs. Moody, after a dramatic escape yesterday at the hand of Mile. Cepkova, the Czechoslovakian champion, will engage Mme. Mathieu, champion of France.

Mrs. Helen Jacobs will play Mile. Jedrejowska, champion of Poland, while Miss K. Stammers has a severe task—an encounter with Mrs. Sperling, the champion of Germany. Mrs. Sperling is now regarded in many quarters as the favourite for the event.

DUEL OVER SPORT

A New Departure

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2.
At the risk of being challenged to a duel myself, I cannot help feeling that M. Didier Poullin's challenge to M. Jean Borotra would make a Hollywood publicity agent's mouth water with envy, writes a correspondent.

A duel over sport is a new departure in French public life. But duels are still common in France. M. Joseph Renaud, a former champion swordsman who superintends most of the duels of importance, estimates that at least 100 take place every year in Paris which are never reported.

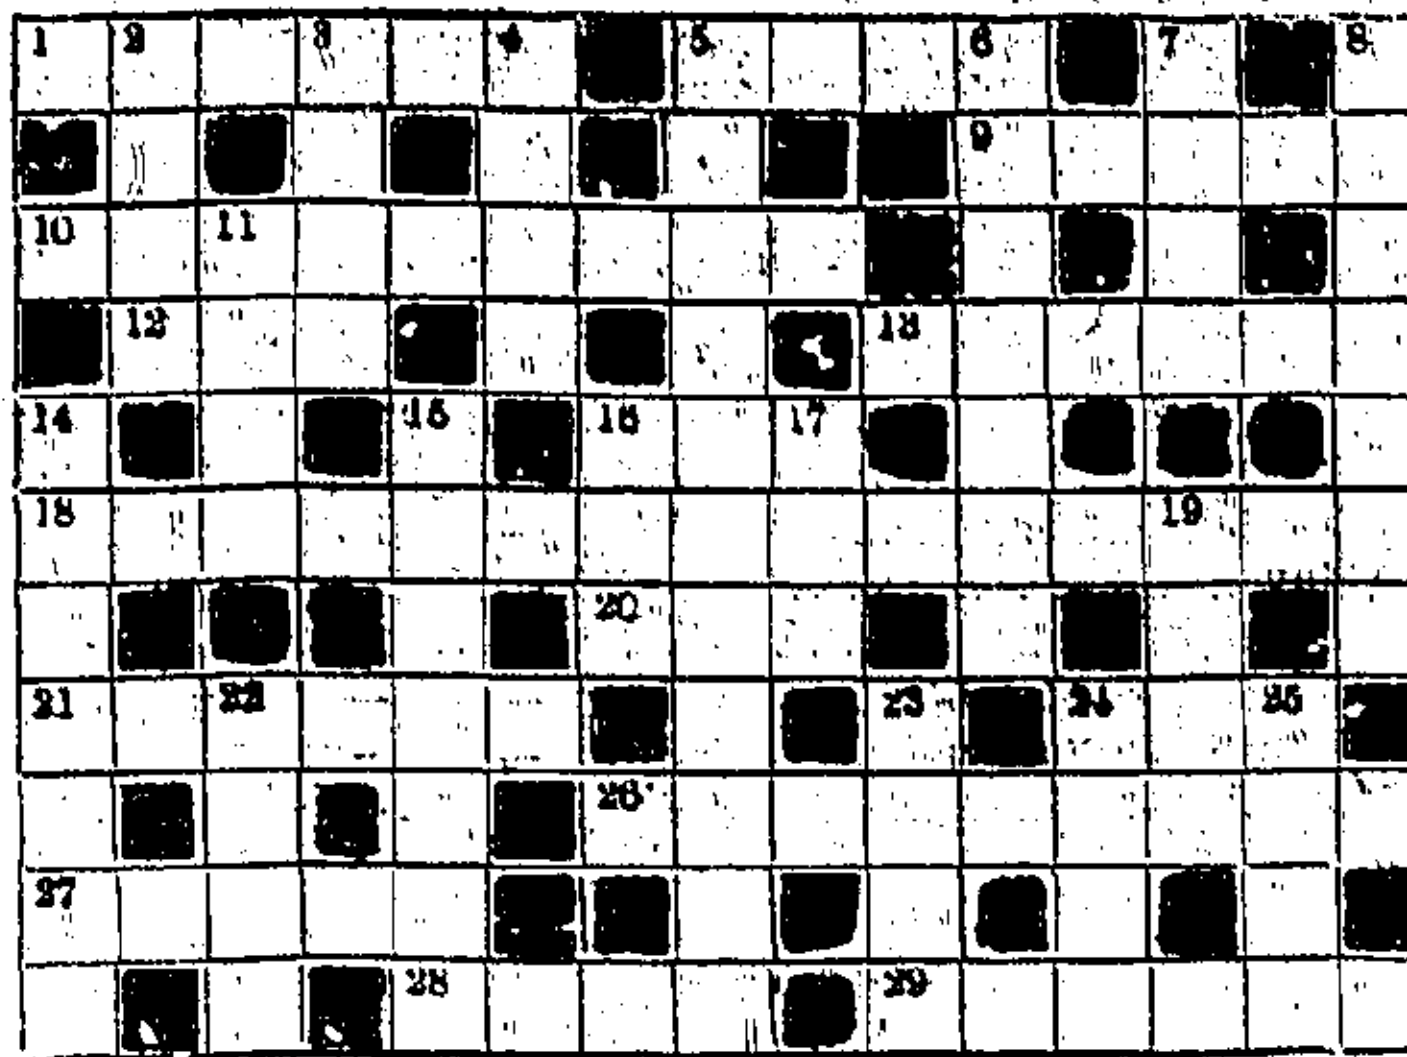

The publicity which attends the half-dozen duels reported annually in the Parisian Press is usually a guarantee that they will be harmless.

LORD SNOWDEN CHALLENGED
Practically all French duels are fought "à la loyale"—that is to say, on the understanding that in the event of one party being wounded, he should preserve complete secrecy as to the origin of his injury.

The last British Cabinet Minister to be challenged was Lord Snowden.

M. Chéron, the then French Minister of Justice, took exception

FRENCH CONCESSION ILLUMINATIONS

Main Roads A Blaze Of Splendour

Shanghai, July 14.
Recalling memories of an earlier celebration this year—the Silver Jubilee—Avenue Joffre, Rue du Consulat, and many big buildings, such as the French Consulate, the Cercle Sportif Français, and the Banque de l'Indo-Chine, were brilliantly illuminated last night, the eve of the national day of France, Quatorze Juillet.

An arch at the commencement of the French Bund, a mass of dazzling coloured lights surmounted by three coloured pinnacles of blue, white, and red, formed a glorious gateway into the French Concession. It was equally fitting that, once through, the first building to catch the eye was the French Consulate, outlined in white lights and throwing into prominence French flags which decorated the Bund front of the building.

Koukaza Park was not illuminated last night, but it will be to-night.

From the Bund, Due du Consulat is decorated with a canopy of green and pink lights. Where the road runs into Avenue Joffre, the canopy of lights are those of the French flag, blue, white, and red. Many of the shops in Avenue Joffre are decorated to fit the occasion and many buildings bear the letter "R.F." in blue and red lights. The Cercle Sportif Français, as in past years is outlined in white lights. Rue Cardinal Mercier also is decorated with overhead coloured lights.

TO-DAY'S PROCEEDINGS

The "Salute of the Flag," at 7.45 a.m. to-day, will be the opening ceremony. At 11.30 a.m. there will be a reception at the French Consulate-General, followed an hour later by another at the Cercle Français, Route Vallon. The French members of the Cercle Sportif Français, Route Cardinal Mercier, will entertain foreign members at 1 p.m., and the day will close with a dinner at the Cercle Sportif Français, at which more than 800 guests will be present.

The Lawn Cinema announces that a special showing of pictures taken of the celebrations during the day will be given to-night.

to Lord Snowden's reference to the attitude he took up at The Hague Conference as "grotesque and ridiculous."

He sent his seconds to wait on Lord Snowden, who, however, soothing him with the explanation that in English the words were a "common Parliamentary expression."

KEEN FIGHT

For Perak Tennis Titles

Ipoh, July 9.

The Perak tennis championships were continued to-day in excellent weather.

For the first time at a Perak championship meeting, Chinese women competed, and gave a good account of themselves—especially Miss Gladys Loke, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Loke, who made Mrs. Nevin, the Ipoh Club title-holder, go all out to win. Miss Loke has a good service and a delightful forearm action, and would improve her play if she went to the net.

The match of the afternoon was the men's doubles, in which Lincoln Leong and Goon Kok Ying met Cheah Wat Hun and Cheah Wat Swee. They provided sparkling tennis with delightful rallies. Kok Ying brilliant at times.

Cheah brothers conceded several points through foot-faulting and double faulting.

SNAKE UNDER HOUSE

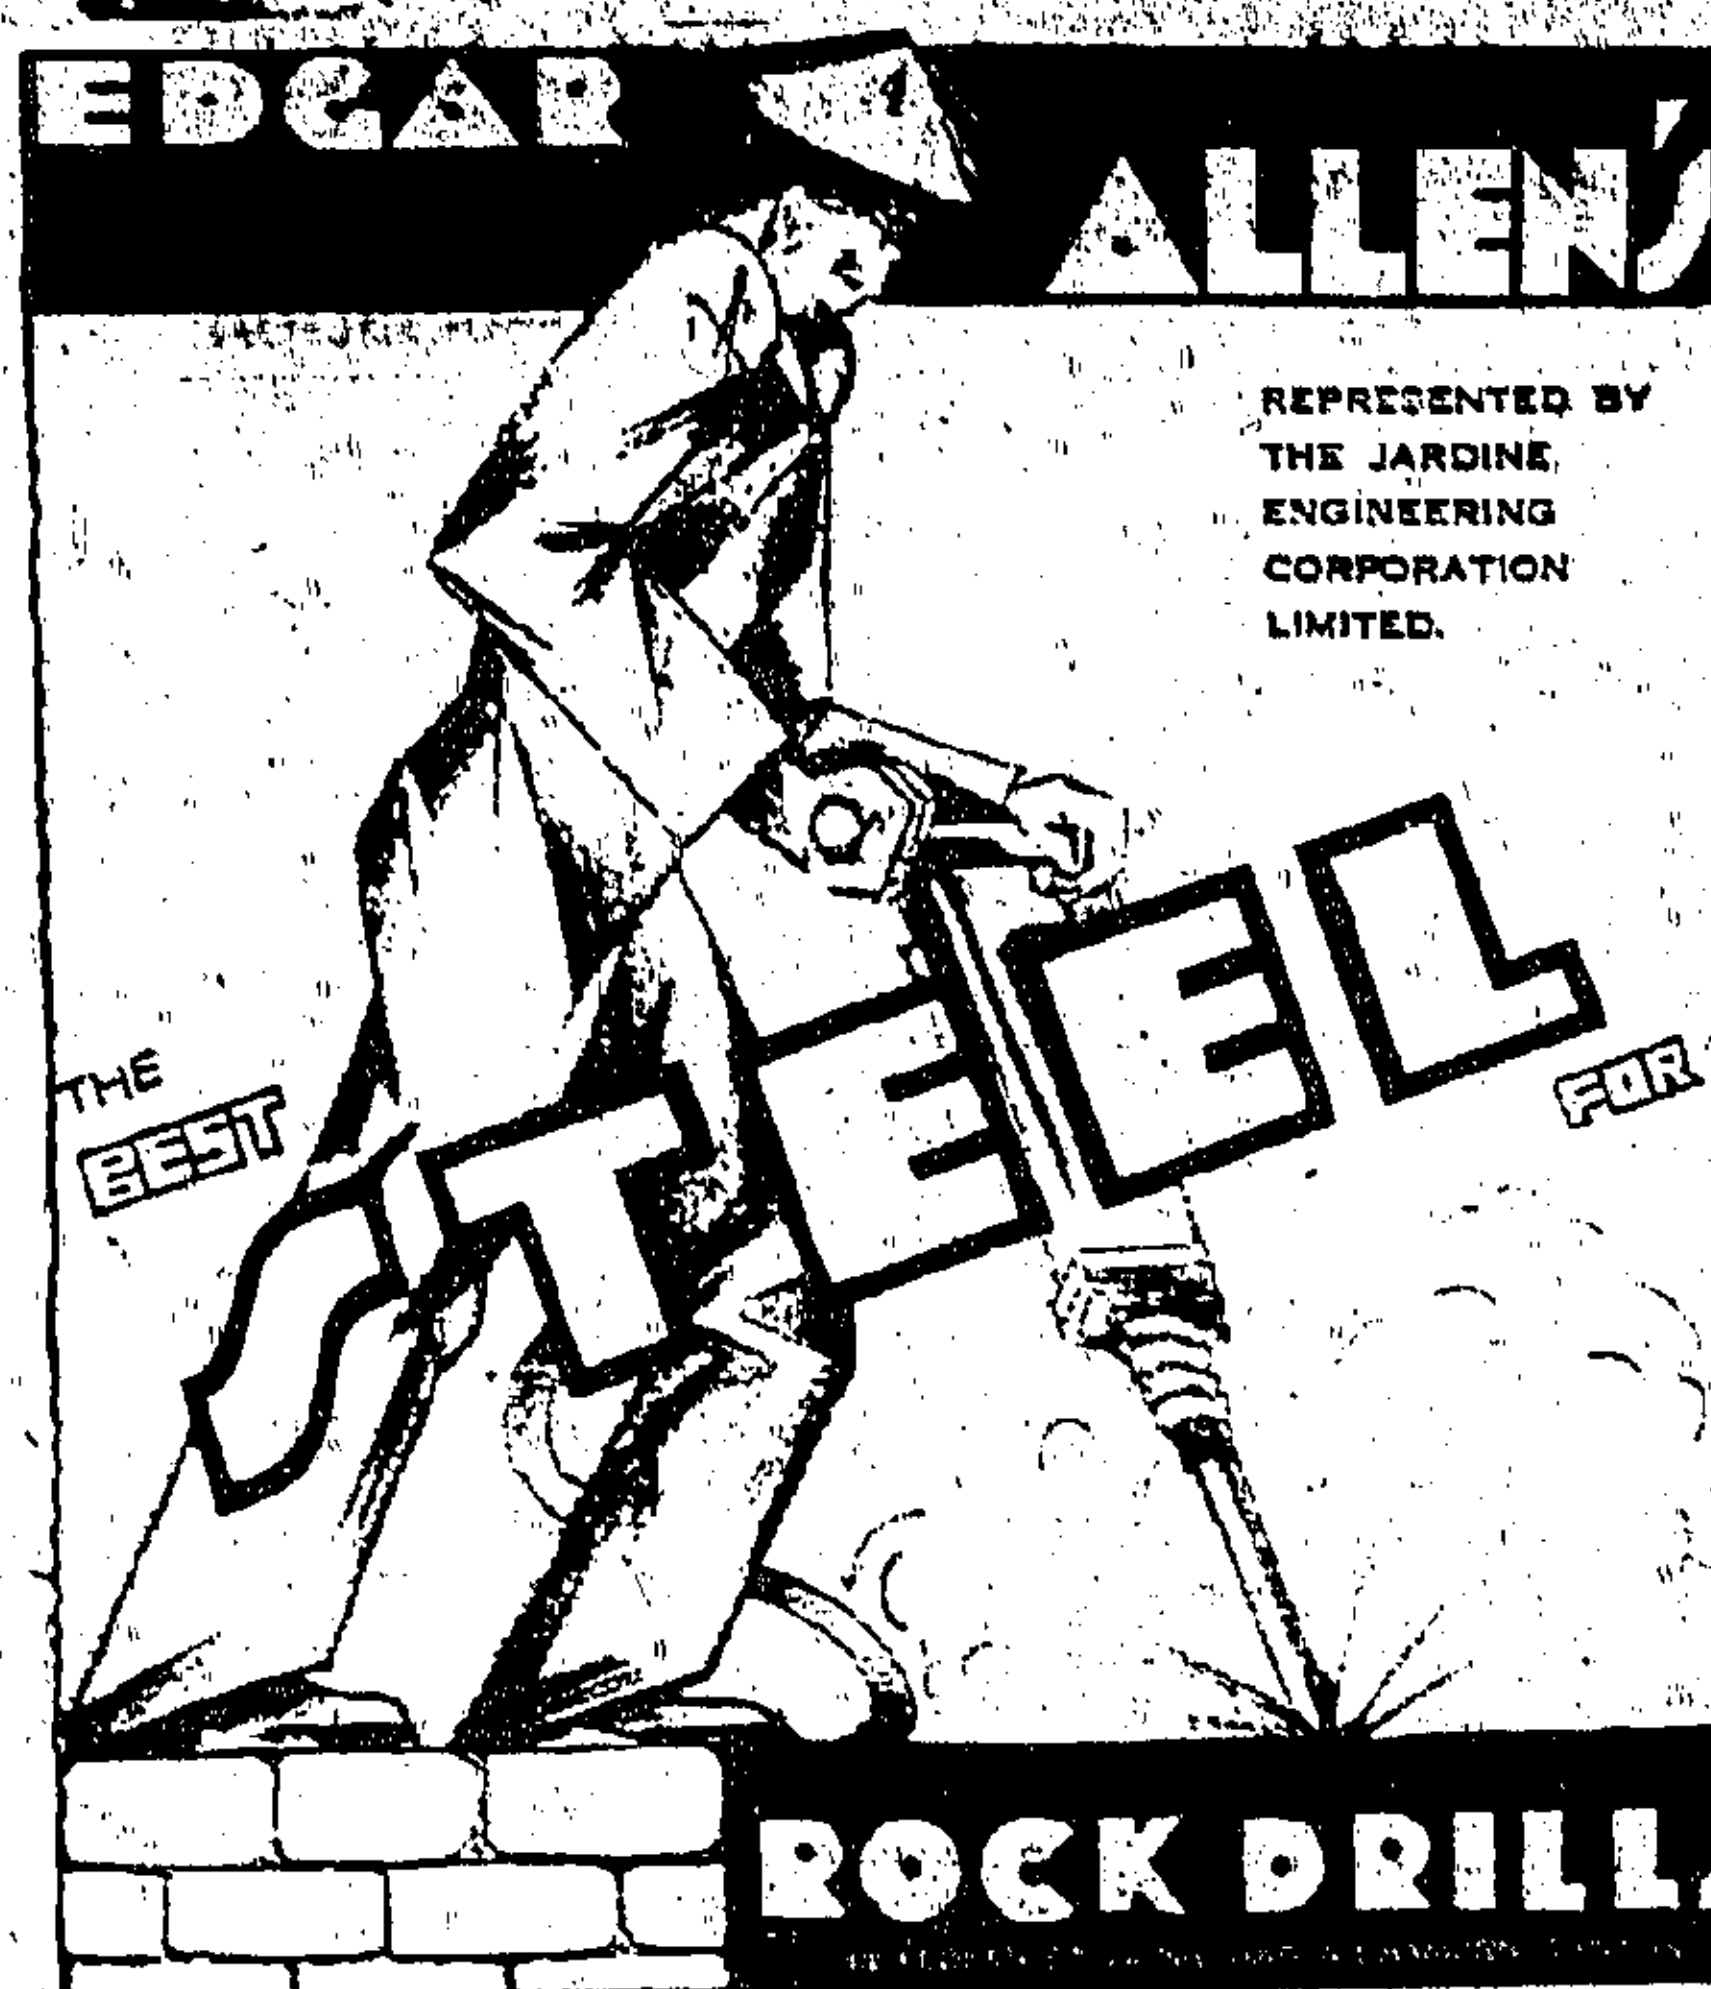

Indian Boy Bitten To Death

Talping, July 6.

How a little Indian boy was bitten to death by a snake which crawled out of the house while the child was playing was told in court this morning when Che Mohd. Saibeh, the Talping Coroner, held an inquest on the boy, Mangala.

Budiah, the boy's eight-year-old sister said her mother went out to sell milk leaving her brother, herself and a grandmother, who was blind, at home. She went out to play in the compound with her brother. They were enjoying themselves when all of a sudden she saw a black snake, about a yard long, coming out of the house and crawling towards her brother. She screamed and her blind grandmother and a neighbour came on the spot. The neighbour quickly took the boy to hospital.

On being asked to describe the snake, the girl said that it spread out its head, on which there were some marks like that of a cobra, before attacking her brother. The snake crawled back to the house after attacking her brother. The Coroner, who held the inquest by misadventure.

GERMAN SHIPPING
DIFFICULTIES

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 17. A statement issued on Wednesday evening jointly by the Boards of the leading German shipping companies in Hamburg and North German Lloyd announces that the two concerns had, with the consent of their respective Boards of Directors, and in accordance with the endeavours for the reorganisation of German shipping, decided that the management of their hitherto jointly operated services to and from New York should be transferred to separate the operating companies.

To this purpose, the "Hamburger Nordatlantikdienst" Company has been founded in Hamburg and the "Bremer Nordatlantikdienst" in Bremen.

As hitherto, the services will be operated under the flags of the names, Hapag and Lloyd, and the Reich Government will facilitate the continuation of these services in a similar manner as there is support given to the ever increasing extent to the foreign competing companies in the North Atlantic service.

The statement goes on to say that the financial difficulties of the two German shipping concerns have been further aggravated in recent years by the losses resulting in the international currency situation and by the increase in competition through the German subsidiaries.

It has, therefore, been necessary to open negotiations for the financial reorganisations of the two concerns and the statements adds that the considerable reduction in the capital will probably be unavoidable.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HITLER'S BOOK

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 17. The German press recalls on Wednesday that ten years have elapsed since the first volume of Hitler's famous book "Struggle" was published on July 1925.

The "Berliner Tageblatt" stresses the fact that the book was written by Hitler during his term of imprisonment in the fortress at Landsberg, Bavaria following the abortive October revolution in Munich which affords proof of the Fuehrer's indomitable will to continue to fight for his ideals even under the most unpropitious circumstances.

Nearly two millions copies of the German edition alone had been sold hitherto and the work thus became Germany's and probably the world's best seller among political books.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LODGE MEMBERSHIP IN GERMANY

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 17. Every civil servant in Germany must make a declaration on oath before September 1, whether he belongs or belonged to freemason lodges, or other lodges or similar organisations according to a decree just issued by the Minister of the Interior.

The same declaration is to be made by all candidates for positions in the civil service. The Minister states that for the time being no action will be taken as a result of any such declarations.—Transocean Kuo Min.

EMERGENCY DECREE
REACTIONS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, July 17. Though it was hardly to be expected that the new emergency decrees which impose heavy sacrifices on all classes of the population would be greeted with enthusiasm, they did not arouse as much hostility as feared by the publication on Wednesday, it being accepted on the whole with calm.

It appears in fact to be gradually recognized that these measures are necessary in order to reorganise public finance and to reconstruct the industry.

The reaction in the Paris bourse was friendly "Rentier" showing a considerable rise. In his speech, which was broadcast over all the French stations this evening, M. Laval emphasised that the retrenchment measures will be applied immediately to the fullest possible extent and to be accompanied by energetic steps for the revival of trade.

The government had to choose between the devaluation of the franc and the taking of all possible measures for its maintenance, declared the Premier, adding that the sacrifices affected all the citizens in a similar degree, and would be automatically reduced should the situation improve.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ANTI-JEWISH RIOT
REPORTS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, July 17. The newspaper, "Nachtausgabe" expressed indignation on Wednesday at the "alarming and vastly exaggerated reports" published by some foreign papers concerning the incidents which occurred on Monday evening in Berlin at the West End's main thoroughfare, Kurfurstendamm, where a group of persons strengthened by unruly elements, staged a demonstration against the presumptive behaviour of the Jews in protesting against the Swedish film which has been recommended by the German Censorship Board as "politically valuable".

The paper strongly deprecates the "irresponsible reports" published abroad under sensational headings. The "Nachtausgabe" stresses the fact that the foreign papers could easily have convinced themselves from witnesses of the actual events and of the rapid restoration of peace and order by the Police and the members of the National Socialist movement.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NO HOPE FOR MAE WEST

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 2. If Clark Gable should abandon his film career the blame must be laid at the door of the Rev. Samuel Williams, of Hopedale, Ohio.

He has set out for Catalina Island, where Mr. Gable is now making "Mutiny of the Bounty," to persuade the actor to end his "sinful influence in the film."

When he explained his mission to an interviewer, Mr. Williams said: "Of course, there is no hope for Mae West and a lot of them; but we do feel there is hope for Mr. Gable." Unfortunately, Miss West's comments are not available.

THE EDUCATION
OF WOMEN

Peiping's Problem

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Peiping, July 10.

Since the Municipal Government decided in April to abolish co-education in local private middle schools, active preparations have been under way for the enforcement of the decision. According to yesterday's papers the Union of Private Middle Schools has addressed a telegram to the Ministry of Education in Nanking, requesting it to overrule the decision of the Municipality, and pointing out that the practice of co-education in middle schools is not contrary to the sound principles of education.

It makes no difference to the middle school age study in the same class-room with boy students or not. What the public is interested in is that girls shall have equal opportunity with boys in the matter of education. It is true that the municipal authorities have decided to establish another girls' middle school and also to instruct the existing First Municipal Girls' Middle School to open more classes next term so that more girls students will be enrolled. But there are several points which deserve consideration.

QUESTION OF FUNDS

According to press reports there are about 800 girl students in co-educational middle schools. The number of those graduated from primary schools this summer must be considerable. If the two municipal girls' middle school cannot accommodate them all, how many can be admitted by private girls' middle schools? Of course the municipal authorities can request the private girls' middle schools to establish more classes, but the question of funds must be considered. Some of these schools are not well-off, and if they are to be asked to accept more students next term, they have to make preparations in advance.

There is reason to believe that the authorities will not be deterred by these difficulties in their determination to abolish co-education in private middle schools, but as a temporary expedient the authorities may allow those schools which have already made provision for branch schools the separate classes, to carry out their plans for the present, thus providing an equal opportunity for girls in the matter of education.—China United Press (by mail).

PLANE MEETS WITH MISAP

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Canton, July 17. The Stinson monoplane of the South-west Political Council, which left here for Kwangsi on Monday was forced down near Sam Shui owing to engine trouble. The passengers and the pilot were not hurt. Among the passengers were Lt.-General Chang Jen Min, a high staff officer of the 4th Group Army, and his wife. Both proceeded back to Canton by train.

The damaged plane will be sent back here for repair. This is the second accident to a plane of the South-west Aviation Corporation. The first mishap occurred at Wuchow, when the machine landed on the river and submerged after a short while. The passengers were not hurt in both accidents.

SHOE-BLACK GENERAL

Brig.-General Kiang Wen Shing, who was one of the volunteer leaders against the Japanese in Manchuria, has a successful "box-office" success in Kwangsi by lecturing to school and public bodies concerning his activities in the North-eastern Provinces. People like to listen to his heroic talks about battles against the Japanese.

More spectacular is the fact that General Kiang was once a boot-black in Shanghai. He arrived there when the anti-Japanese movement died down. He could not make any money by his lectures, so he drew public attention by shining shoes at the corner of Chekiang and Nanking Roads. He did a thriving business, as the people wished to have their shoes polished by a general. Public interest in him being on the wane, the general came to Canton and later went to Kwangsi. He will soon tour the Straits Settlements and the F. M. S.

GERMAN LOAN TO SOVIET

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, July 17.

The report published in certain sections of the foreign press to the effect that the German Government had recently offered the Soviet Government a loan of one milliard marks without security in order to increase German exports to Russia in exchange for Russian War materials, was semi-officially denied on Wednesday as lacking any foundation whatsoever. It is stressed that apart from the German Russian credit agreement of April 9 last, the granting of further German credits to the Soviet Union was never discussed, and it goes without saying that no offer of this kind had been made.

BERLIN BOURSE

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, July 17.

The rising tendency with which the bourse opened soon gave way to a more uncertain trend, the sharp prices being then rather weaker with the turnover continuing very restricted despite the favourable impression created by the much stronger Reichsbank statement.

The change in the outlook is due chiefly to the rumours that the management of the bourse had planned steps to check the present bull tendencies while the Bankers' Association would not give any further credit for share buying.

Fixed interest securities were also erratic, demand concentrating chiefly on the industrial debentures. Call Money was at 2 1/2 to 3.

REICHSBANK RETURNS

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, July 17.

The Reichsbank returns dated July 15, issued on Wednesday revealed a remarkable increase in goldstock by 8.1 millions Reichsmarks to 93.8, the highest gold holding for a considerable time past. This sudden access of gold is the outcome of a special transaction with Soviet Russia which pays for the deliveries of the German industrial products by depositing gold against Reichsmarks.

The reserves of foreign currencies also increased by 4.4 to 8.4 millions Reichsmarks augmented from the same source, being part of the gold received from Russia having been exchanged for foreign currencies.

The total increase of note cover is from 12.5 to 102.3 millions Reichsmarks. Note circulation declined by 74.0 to 3688.5 millions Reichsmarks. The amount of credit issued decreased by 93.8 to 4280.7 millions Reichsmarks.
